Bay warehouse linked to porno distribution

By BRENT MACEY

A warehouse located at 301 Main St. in Bay St. Louis is believed by local law enforcement authorities to house pornographic materials for distribution to Louisiana and Harrison County. A series of articles this week in the Clarion-Ledger, a Jackson newspaper, alleges operators of the warehouse have connections with organized crime and are involved in nation-wide production and distribution of pornographic materials. The Main Street building, formerly a motorcycle shop, is owned by Mrs. M. L. Ramond of Bay St. Louis. Joe Buccola, Bay St. Louis real estate agent, said Wednesday the building was leased in June, 1979 to Al Perrenot of

New Centry Enterprises Inc., 5242 Veterans Blvd., Metairie, La. The Jackson newspaper article Monday alleges the Bay St. Louis warehouse is operated by a group led by James Cornett, who was formerly involved in pornography distribution and sales in Cincinnati, Richmond, Ind., and New Orleans. Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said Cornett currently resides in Idlewood Subdivision in Waveland. Peterson Wednesday confirmed the warehouse has been in operation for more than a year. During that time several law enforcement agencies have kept the operation under surveillance, Peterson said.

Those departments include the Sheriff's Department, Mississippi State Highway Patrol, the Jefferson Parish Sheriff's Department, Kenner, La. Police, and law officials from other states, he said. "Within the last year we have gathered numerous intelligence files on the operation," Peterson said. He said the police officials became 'suspicious' of the operation when vans with out of state registrations were seen in the area and the building remained boarded up. Because police have never been able to obtain a search warrant or enter the building police officials do not know exactly what type of literature is being distributed at the warehouse, the sheriff said.

Peterson said vans leaving the warehouse have been traced to the New Orleans area and also to Harrison County with the bulk of the vans distributing to areas in Louisiana.

Peterson said about two vans on the average visit the warehouse each week. "We do feel there are links between the warehouse operation and organized crime," Peterson said.

He would not cite names of underworld characters believed to be involved in the operation.

In addition to keeping a close watch on the warehouse operation, police departments have consulted with District Attorney Albert Necaise and County Prosecutor John Genin on legality of the operation in Bay St. Louis.

"The problem confronting us is that none of the material that allegedly distributed in the county or sold here," Peterson said.

"Since the material is not distributed, or put on shelves in this area, we can find no violations of Mississippi Law," the sheriff explained.

The problem, according to Peterson, is a 'law problem.'

"What is pornography. It's hard to define. The law is very vague," he said.

Genin agreed that the law is vague.

"The state of Mississippi used to have some very clear cut laws dealing with pornography," Genin said Tuesday.

"However," he continued, "The United States Supreme Court has declared most statutes in the books unconstitutional in cases involving other states. Those old Mississippi laws are no longer valid although they are still on the books."

Genin said he believes the offense of distributing or selling pornography is a misdemeanor even if the material is pornographic.

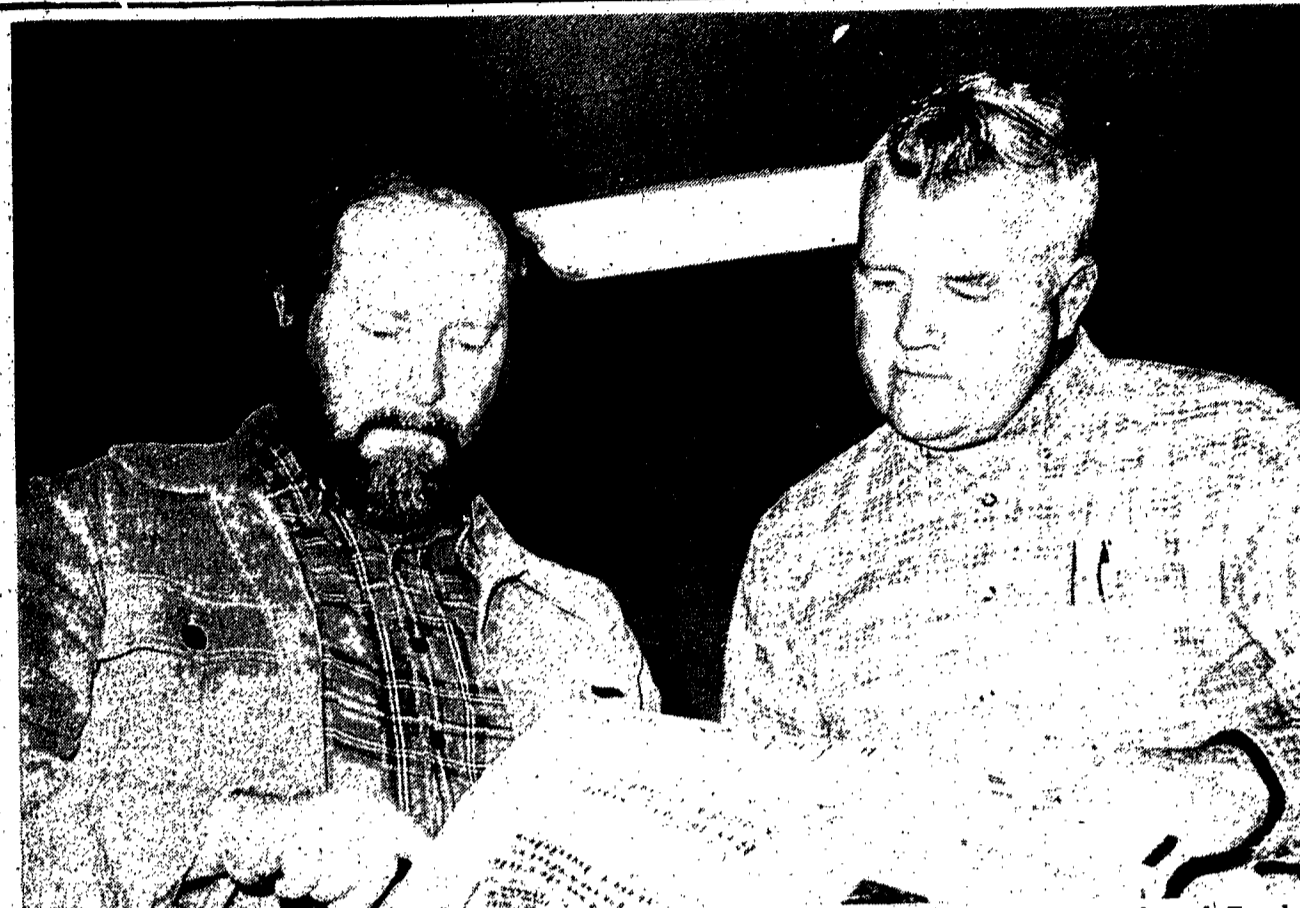

He said a jury of nine people must declare the material obscene, and the case would become more of a civil action.

Genin said the law is reasonably clear if a business is selling material, filming pornography, or if minors are involved.

The warehouse on the corner of Touline and Main is doing none of these, Peterson said.

INVESTIGATING HAZARDS—Paul J. Warren, left, area engineer of the U.S. Corps of Engineers Mobile office, scans newspaper reports of hazards in the Mississippi Sound with Robert (Bobby) Boudin, Hancock County Civil Defense director. Corps assisting Hancock in water hazard removal

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is assisting the Hancock County Civil Defense in its efforts to remove dangerous obstacles from local waters.

Paul J. Warren, area engineer with the Mobile Area Corps Office Tuesday personally viewed by boat three Mississippi Sound hazards.

"I'll write a report of these obstacles and we'll try to find the owners," Warren said.

"Owners of sunken vessels are ultimately responsible for removal or marking and maintaining that mark," Warren stated.

"The Corps is primarily concerned with removing objects from navigable channels, but we do get involved in removing water obstacles in other locations," he added.

Robert (Bobby) Boudin, County Civil Defense director, Tuesday said if owners are not financially able to remove sunken vessels, the Corps requests owner permission to move the obstacles.

Warren stated, "A sunken vessel has to be officially abandoned by the owner before it can be moved."

The Corps' problem right now is finding owners of two of the three obstacles.

Warren said locating owners is a lengthy, time consuming process.

Boudin cited how a recent report in The Sea Coast Echo and information from resident Mel Villere led to a 1929 article identifying owners of a dredge which sunk near Nicholson Avenue in Waveland.

"Warren said he could go right to work finding the owner of the Waveland hazard because the original owner was identified," Boudin said.

Smith pushing Justice Court judge salaries

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Hancock County's Sen. Martin Smith of Poplarville is pushing for quick legislative action abolishing the justice court judge fee system.

A bill is being considered to replace the justice court judge fee arrangement with salaries based on county district population.

Smith, who also heads the Senate Judiciary Committee, Wednesday said action is necessary due to a U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals' decision ruling the fee system unconstitutional. The House is also considering a similar bill.

"We've got to pass something dealing with this situation in this session. And we will have to reach an agreement next Tuesday in a House-Senate conference committee report," Smith said, noting the current legislative session ends April 4.

The judiciary committee approved the bill Tuesday and rejected a proposal by Sen. Bill Minor of Holly Springs delaying the change until 1984. Smith reported the present measure delays implementation of the salary system until October 1982.

"We're trying to postpone this change a full fiscal year to give counties a chance to evaluate their finances," Smith said.

"Right now we're allowing these courts to operate under the present system until April 10," the senator noted.

The Mississippi Economic Council's weekly 'Legislative Action' report states, "...neither legislators nor the State Attorney General could guarantee that the payment plan could withstand further court challenges."

Senator says:

Governor will sign open meetings law

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Gov. William Winter is expected to sign an open meetings law narrowly passed by a 25-24 Mississippi Senate vote Tuesday.

The bill will limit topics discussed by county boards and commissions in secret (executive) sessions to 10 categories.

Sen. Martin Smith of Poplarville, who represents Hancock County, Wednesday morning said, "Winter has supported an open meetings law all along."

"I've been in constant contact with the governor regarding this bill and he says he will sign the legislation," Smith noted.

The governor's signature will make the measure law.

Smith said Sen. Bill Minor of Holly

Springs requested the bill be reconsidered by a Senate-House conference committee consisting of three representatives of each legislative group.

But the Poplarville senator said he successfully urged the Senate to table Minor's request.

"If we had not tabled the request Minor could have offered the bill for recommendations by a House committee," Smith reported.

"Three things could have happened. The House could have refused to grant conference, dilly-dallied, or refused to adopt the report," the senator listed.

Explaining the narrow Senate vote, Smith said, "Some members didn't like a provision in the bill exempting the

Bureaucracy hindering Senior Citizen program

By BRENT MACEY

Bureaucracy involved in funding programs designed to assist Senior Citizens in Mississippi is hindering efficient operation of those programs according to a local director of the Senior Citizens Program and directors of South Mississippi Planning and Development.

Eve McDonald, director of the Senior Citizen Center on Old Spanish Trail in Bay St. Louis said the result of this bureaucracy may mean couples now eligible for a free lunch at the Center may have to eat at tables separated by partitions or in separate buildings altogether in the future because they do not qualify for the same type of program.

"The problem is the result of two different state programs in charge of allocating federal money to Senior Citizens who qualify for the different programs," McDonald said.

"Money is being pooled out of two different hats and we would like to see the two programs combined."

One of the programs which senior citizens now qualify for is referred to as Title III. Money for that program is allocated by the Mississippi State Department on Aging.

A second program which 226 senior citizens in Hancock County qualify for is entitled the Title XX program. Funds for that program are allocated through the Mississippi State Department of Public Welfare.

Both agencies receive their funding from money made available through the federal government.

Currently funds available to the center through the Title III program pay the cost of meals to senior citizens eligible for the Title XX program, McDonald said.

"There is currently not enough money in the Title III program to cover inflation and expansion of the meal program," she said.

McDonald said she hoped to add and additional 47 meals per week to the Senior Citizen Center at a cost of $8,000.

According to McDonald, the Title XX program had a surplus of $5,865,062 for fiscal year 1979-80.

"That money was returned to the Clerk seeking 1,000 more voters

By EDGAR PEREZ

Bay St. Louis City Clerk Eddie Favre reminds residents this week everyone wishing to vote in the May 12 first primary municipal election must have registered since the last city elections in June, 1977.

Favre said the registration books were purged following the 1977 elections, and he emphasized all voters must have re-registered or have registered for the first time in the city in the meantime in order to be eligible in the next elections.

The city clerk said residents also must be qualified county electors in order to be eligible to vote in the municipal elections.

Saturday, April 11 at noon is the deadline for registering to vote, he noted. The qualifying deadline for independent candidates is April 3 and for Democratic or Republican Party candidates, noon Saturday, April 11.

Favre said a second primary is scheduled May 19 if needed, and the General Election will be June 2.

The officers of mayor, four ward councilmen and councilman-at-large will be filled in the elections.

Favre estimates the city population at a total of some 9,000 persons with 2,850 already properly registered.

He estimates an additional 1,000 to 1,200 residents are eligible to vote but not properly registered.

Potential voters must have resided in Bay St. Louis for only 30 days prior to registering, Favre pointed out.

Teenagers who will be 18-years-of-age on or before the date of an election are eligible to register prior to the deadline and vote in the applicable election, Favre added in urging young voters to register.

Favre said he and Deputy City Clerk Susan Tolen will maintain special extra hours at City Hall to accommodate persons desiring to register.

Registration is conducted in the city clerk's office at the right rear of the City Hall second floor hallway.

Favre pointed out registration will be conducted on the first floor of City Hall in the Utilities Department office from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, Apr. 4 to 6 commodate persons unable to climb steps.

Other special office hours for voter registration include 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, March 28, Apr. 4 and Apr. 11; 6 to 8 p.m. Thursday nights, March 26, Apr. 2 and Apr. 9; and Monday nights, March 30 and Apr. 6.

Persons unsure if they are properly registered may call Favre's office at 467-9060 for an immediate determination.

Normal office hours at City Hall are 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Hospital patient figures improve

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Hancock General Hospital's February average daily attendance figure reflected an increase at the Bay St. Louis facility.

Mike Hallford, controller, told the Hospital Board of Trustees at a recent meeting the average daily attendance figure for February reached 40 patients.

Phillip Langston, administrator, reported an ADA of 35 paid patients represents a financial break-even point for the hospital.

Dr. Joseph Lee, chief of medical staff and trustee, said influenza cases largely contributed to the patient increase.

In other business at the meeting in the hospital conference room, the board:

- Amended its by-laws as recommended by Robert Genin, board attorney, requiring trustees be notified at least 24 hours prior to special meetings and deleted a sentence regarding board member's removal by the County Board of Supervisors;
- Accepted a request by Dr. William Hill, cardiologist, to be listed as a consulting staff member. Hill was an active staff member. Lee said Hill will no longer be admitting patients under his name;

- Accepted a recommendation by Hallford to purchase an International Business Machines System Two copying machine at state bid price;
- Accepted a recommendation by Langston to endorse a certificate of need for a proposed $24 million Gulfport Memorial Hospital building program replacing patient areas in an old east wing with new rooms on a fourth and fifth floor on top of the 1970 east wing and new surgery, coronary care, surgical intensive care units;
- Met in a 35-minute executive session to discuss hiring a respiratory therapy unit, medical director;
- Tabled action regarding a Quality Assurance Plan pending a final medical staff recommendation;
- Discussed naming a proposed hospital house organ;
- Discussed an out-patient and in-service policy for the hospital;
- Discussed overtime payments to hospital personnel;
- Heard reports from Hallford and Langston regarding a sticker system to improve patient inventory control;
- Heard a report from Langston of a April 24 hospital trustee seminar in Nashville, Tenn.

federal government," she said.

The director of the Mississippi Council on Aging met with the directors of the Department of Public Health in January in an attempt to revise the two programs so that the Title III program could utilize some of the Title XX funds which were not used," McDonald said.

"He thought he had something worked out," she said.

However, McDonald said she was recently informed that there would be no funds available to the Title III meal program through the Title XX program because "half of the cafeteria is used by Title III people."

Jane Kennedy, director of the South Mississippi Planning and Development, said this type of attitude was not uncommon with the Department of Public Health.

Kennedy pointed to an example where funds were requested through the agency to purchase a rug for a Senior Citizen Center in Jackson County.

"They said they would not buy the rug because Title III people were using the same building and that they would be walking on it," she said.

Both Kennedy and McDonald along with Mike Turner of Southern Mississippi Planning and Development, met with Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett to discuss the problem Tuesday.

Bennett, who in turn called a press conference the same day, said he will go to Jackson to see about the problem and talk with directors of the State Welfare Department and the Mississippi Council on Aging.

"It's criminal when an elderly couple cannot sit down and enjoy a meal together."

"But all the legislature has to do is adopt a rule stating it will come under the terms of the law," Smith noted.

The senator added that those opposing the bill based on the legislative exemption were not in favor of the law anyway.

Smith commended Rep. J.P. Compretta of Hancock County by stating, "J.P. really worked on this law and did

The senator said existing laws require all scheduled government meetings be opened to the public, but with a three-fifths vote an organization may enter into secret executive sessions to conduct any type of business.

Smith states the bill limits secret sessions to 10 categories including discussions of personnel, pending litigation, the location of a business or industry, extraordinary emergencies threatening the public and investigative proceedings.

The law originally prohibited a final vote in secret session, but a House amendment permits such votes by boards or commissions.

Regarding violations of the new law, Smith said citizens could obtain a chancery court injunction to stop illegal actions in executive sessions or a 'circuit' court writ of mandamus, a mandatory order of the circuit court.

"Contempt of court could result in a fine or jail sentence against board or commission members," Smith said.

Seal highlights economic issues at annual meeting

Leo W. Seal Jr., president of Hancock Bank, presided at the organization's 82nd annual stockholders meeting recently in the lobby of the Gulfport bank.

In his report to stockholders, Seal spoke on economic developments during the past year and stated, "We witnessed the highest interest rates, both in terms of what was paid to savers as well as what was charged to borrowers, that the nation and our industry has ever experienced."

He said the general economy of the Gulf Coast fared fairly well, although high interest rates had their effect on home building and seafood industries as well as automobile dealers.

Seal pointed out Hancock Bank experienced a deposit growth of nearly $30 million, up about 10.5 percent over 1979, and after-tax earnings were over $800,000.

He also reported dividends paid to stockholders during the year were increased to $2.35 per share, "which marks the sixth year in a row we've been able to raise your dividend."

Commenting on changed banking laws in 1980, Seal said, "The most sweeping changes in banking laws since the 1930's, which began last year with the introduction of paying interest on checking accounts, will have a profound influence and impact on nearly all financial institutions."

"Most certainly the competition will become more intense, and with that pressure on profits, at least for the early years of the decade," Seal noted.

In discussion of the bank's building program now underway, Seal reported some departments are scheduled to begin moving into the new headquarters building in Gulfport in July.

"Expansion of facilities at the Pass Christian office and a new addition at the Poplarville branch, which will double the size of the present Poplarville office, are scheduled for completion by mid-summer," Seal reported. In action taken at the meeting, stockholders voted on the election of members of the bank's board and advisory directors.

"Those elected are Robert R. Allen, Joseph F. Boardman Jr., George E. Estes Sr., R. P. Fant, Haze French, Charles H. Johnson, H. H. Jones and L. A. Koenen Jr.," a bank spokesman said.

"Also elected were T. W. Milner Jr., Dr. H. C. Moody Jr., Basil Noble Jr., C. Hooker Quick, Robert M. Riemann, Leo W. Seal Jr., Donald E. Sutter, Dr. C. D. Taylor Jr., and Roland Weeks Jr.," the spokesman added.

Business workshop slated in Gulfport

A four-session workshop for the aspiring entrepreneur, small business manager, retail owner or salesperson is scheduled in Gulfport April 6, 7, 13, and 14.

The class, which is sponsored by the Mississippi Research and Development Center and the U.S. Small Business Administration will meet from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in Room 110-D at Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College, Jefferson Davis Campus in Gulfport.

"The workshop is designed to assist small business owners and others who are involved in a retailing venture with practical retailing theory and techniques," a spokesman from the R & D Center says.

"Emphasis is placed on formulating an overall marketing plan, and evaluating the marketing mix," the spokesman notes.

"These sessions will provide maximum opportunity for registrants to discuss specific business problems and needs and engage in informal discussion with other registrants," the spokesman explains.

"Enrollment in the workshop is limited to the first 40 registrants. A fee of $25 per person includes instruction and workshop materials," the spokesman reports.

"Among topics to be discussed are 'Measuring the Results of Advertising,' 'Price Objectives and Strategies,' 'Identifying Your Customer Profile' and 'The Present-Day Importance of Marketing,' the spokesman states.

Those interested in registering for the workshop should contact Isabelle Bishop, R and D Center Gulf Coast Branch office by telephoning 884-3302.

Waveland attorney honored at legal secretaries' event

Attorney Lucien Gex Jr. of Waveland was recently selected and honored at the 13th Annual Bosses' Night 'Roundup' conducted by the Harrison and Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association at the Broadwater Beach Country Club in Biloxi.

Gex was born in New Orleans and graduated from the University of Alabama and Tulane University of Louisiana where he received his LL.B. in 1955.

He was admitted to the Louisiana Bar in 1955 and to the Mississippi Bar in 1963.

He was division counsel for General Electric Company at the Mississippi Test Facility from 1965 to 1972 and has been the city attorney for the City of Waveland since 1965.

He is also attorney for the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District and is a member of the Mississippi State Bar Association; Hancock County Bar (president 1976-1977); the City of New Orleans Bar; Louisiana State Bar; and American Bar Association.

He is married to the former Nancy Gould of Theodore, Ala., and they reside in Waveland with their four children, Leslie, Lucien III 'Bau', Laurie, and Nancy.

Gex was King Nerius X of the Waveland Nerids Carnival Association in 1976. In 1978, he was the recipient of the American Legion 'Distinguished Business and Profession Award' and was commander of the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club from 1979 to 1980.

Honored as Legal Secretary of the Year was Patsy Bishop who has been employed by the Gulfport law firm of Palmer and Gaines since 1970.

She is a native of Long Beach where she resides with her husband, Butch, and their two daughters, Lisa and Linda.

Bishop has held almost every elective position in the local chapter including two terms as president and was honored as Legal Secretary of the Year for 1972-73.

Currently, she is serving the local chapter as representative to the National Association of Legal Secretaries. On the state level, Bishop has served as secretary, treasurer, national director, president for two terms, and is currently serving as state publications chairman.

"President, Ilyne Stewart, extended the welcome to approximately 200 attorneys and guests present for the annual observance of Bosses' Night and Gini Myers, Bosses' Night chairman, introduced out of town guests including officers of the Mississippi Association of Legal Secretaries," a group spokesman reported.

"Bishop presented certificates to those who instructed in the NALS Official Course recently conducted and entertainment was provided by Frances Favre assisted by Betty Lou Clark," the spokesman noted.

"Favre, appearing as a lovely 'Dolly Partin' pantomimed 'Nine to Five' and related the history of the Harrison and Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association highlighting events and accomplishments made by various members of the bar and legal secretaries from its inception in 1962," the spokesman said.

"Contemporary dances of various time periods were performed by Ilyne and Larry Stewart," the spokesman added.

Serving as Boss of the Year Chairman was Myrna Cody; Legal Secretary of the Year Chairman was Lydia Snell; Food Chairman was Sandra Wedworth; Printed Invitations Chairman was Henrietta Caranna; and Decorations Chairman was Maxine LeBouef assisted by Kelly Dupont.

Stennis featured in state Democratic dinner event

U.S. Sen. John Stennis and Congressmen David Bowen and G. V. 'Sonny' Montgomery will be special guests at the Mississippi Democratic Party's Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner on April 3.

"Mississippi Democrats are honored that these three distinguished Congressional leaders can take time from their busy schedules to join us," State Democratic Chairman Danny Cupit said recently.

"These three men, along with Congressman Jamie Whitten, have proven records as leaders not only in Congress, but for the entire nation," Cupit said.

Stennis, Mississippi's senior U.S. Senator, will introduce the featured speaker, U.S. Sen. John Glenn of Ohio.

"The two men have served together in the Senate since 1974, when Glenn was elected to his first term, and have worked on many joint projects, including building a strong national defense," Cupit noted.

"Congressmen Bowen and Montgomery will address the dinner, which is an annual event commemorating the history and accomplishments of the Democratic Party," Cupit stated.

Both Congressmen won reelection last year.

"Third District Congressman Montgomery recently became chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee and has worked with other House Democrats to organize a coalition of conservative Democratic Congressmen," Cupit reported.

Bowen is the ranking member of the House Agriculture Committee, where he is chairman of the Cotton Subcommittee.

Whitten has expressed his regrets about not attending the dinner, indicating he has a prior commitment in Washington working on the Federal Budget as chairman of the House Appropriations Committee," Cupit said.

Chief Andrew B. Lizana and Cpt. Michael Willumitis, both of the Bay St. Louis Fire Department, recently attended a two-day seminar at the Mississippi Fire Academy in Jackson.

"Some 350 firefighters from across the state were registered for the seminar," an academy spokesman reports.

Four courses taught were Fire-Arson Detection, Fire Incident Management, Safe Management of Hazardous Materials Incidents, and Volunteer Fire Service Management.

"Instructors were provided by the National Fire Academy," the spokesman notes.

Lizana attended the Fire-Arson detection class and Willumitis participated in the hazardous materials course.

"James S. Hart Jr., director of the Mississippi Fire Academy, told those attending about severe financial problems facing the Mississippi Fire Academy. If the present legislature does not properly fund the state academy," the spokesman adds.

Bits 'n pieces

Many people are aware of the Mutual Aide pact between the many fire departments along the Coast.

There may be a few who are aware of the agreement, which is signed annually by the various leaders which enables fire departments to help each other.

One fire department may send an engine to the station of a Mutual Aide company when their units are all out at a fire.

It is really interesting how well all the fire departments, paid and volunteer, work together to protect our property.

We can see the benefits to all communities with the Mutual Aide, especially with all the recent fires.

It is apparent that in Hancock County like other counties not all fires are accidental.

We are glad our law enforcement agencies are investigating the fires and have made some arrests.

Many residents were panic stricken when they would see the fires heading toward their homes.

We hope the fire season is over.

The Louisiana State Tigers are one of our teams remaining in the NCAA basketball tourney.

We know a lot of Mississippians are now pulling for the Tigers since the Ole Miss Rebels are no longer in the picture.

The Rebels made it to the NCAA tourney after a 13-13 regular season record, which was almost impossible and they have to be commended.

We wish the Tigers good luck this weekend. They have put Louisiana on the map in basketball. this year.

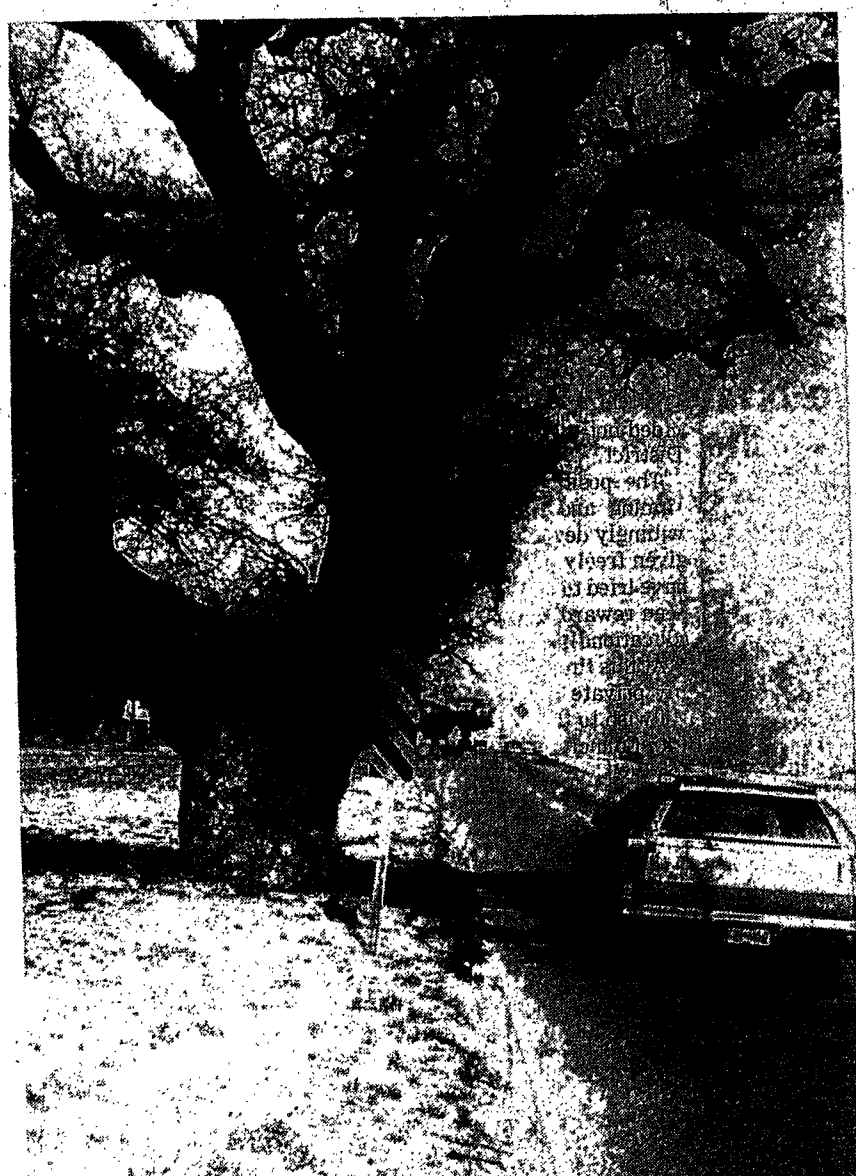

The weather has been so nice lately and many have been questioning us about fishing.

We have not been able to go, but hope to be able to wet the line real soon.

There were some specks caught off the US-90 Highway Bridge last week.

We saw some nice catfish caught in the Jourdan River.

Fishing should be in full swing in a few weeks.

HAZARDOUS TREES—A large oak growing in a US-90 neutral ground in Pass Christian is marked with a large State Highway Department reflective sign warning motorists of the potentially dangerous obstacle. City and county governments should also mark roadside trees so a drowsy nighttime motorist might have a chance to avoid hitting these immovable objects. Several citizens have been killed or maimed as a result of hitting large trees with their cars at night. Drivers should be careful and alert at all times, but a reflective marker might give someone that split-second chance to avoid a deadly encounter.

Closing Webb Street dump

emphasizes need for facility near city

March 19, 1981
The Sea Coast Echo

To the Editor:
In regards to the dumping on Webb Street:
While I wholeheartedly agree this is an eyesore and health hazard, I'm afraid it will continue until the city can come up with an alternate dumping spot closer than the only one now available.

Webb dump influences her vote

Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir:
Why I'm not voting to re-elect Mayor Bennett—

The picture you saw in last Thursday's Sea Coast Echo of the illegal dumping at the Webb Street location is what I and a lot of other people see daily from our backyards.

Four years ago, before Mr. Bennett was elected, he promised to do something about the Webb Street dump.

Last Thursday's picture shows what we have today.

A year ago last October, 80 registered voters again asked Mr. Bennett and the Council to do something about the rampant dumping at Webb Street.

The Council closed the dump and left it to the mayor to satisfy the voters on What with the high cost of gas no one is going to make a 30-40 mile round trip to dispose of trash.

Surely if the mayor and city council try they can come up with an alternate solution because if no dumping is enforced Bay St. Louis will turn into a series of "mini-dumps" (of which we have enough already.)

this issue.
Last Thursday's picture shows what we've gotten.

Clean-up plaques adorn the walls of City Hall; Crosby's lot get cleaned (we 80 voters pay taxes, too.); and our backyard view remains the same.

That picture is on page 4-A of The Sea Coast Echo; or just take a ride right across the railroad track down Webb Street.

To those people who come dumping:
1. Who told you you could dump there?

2. Because you don't want to look at your trash or have it around, what makes you think I do?

3. The only place you can legally dump is at Catahoula. You turn left at the caution light in Kiln and go all the way to the end of the road.

Visitor shocked

at Bay St. Louis courtroom decorum

Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

To The Editor
I feel that it is necessary to express my displeasure at the conduct of a local city court judge on the night of March 18.

I can understand the necessity of decorum in the courtroom but I don't understand the necessity for rudeness and crude behavior towards taxpayers whose only crime is having a child that has gotten in trouble.

Judge Joe Benvenuti showed by his behavior that his status as a large frog in a small pond has affected his outlook on people—who should be treated with respect no matter who they know or how much money they have.

Everybody whom I talked to who attended city court last Wednesday was surprised and offended by Judge Benvenuti's behavior and I feel that Mr. Benvenuti should remember his position as a servant of the public and not a reincarnation of the All-Powerful.

Thank You,

Pass Chamber president

seeks accord with city officials

EDITOR
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:
From remarks made by several members of the Board of Aldermen at a recent meeting it became quite apparent that there is a misconception as to the object and purpose of the Pass Christian Area Chamber of Commerce.

The by-laws state as follows:
"The object of the corporation is to advance the commercial, industrial, civic, and general interest of the Pass Christian area and its citizens, and to promote the best interest of the Mississippi Gulf Coast."

For a number of years the city has been giving an annual contribution to the Chamber of Commerce for its services in furnishing aid and information to tourists and visitors to our beautiful area and also sponsoring the annual "Blessing of the Fleet".

Most recently, the city has given $1,200 each year for these services and the county, through the Harrison County Tourism Commission, has given $3,000 for 1981.

Our total budget for the year 1981 is $15,145 with the city contribution being less than 8 percent, the county's less than 20 percent.

The balance of our budget comes from membership dues and gifts which cover over 72 percent of our total budget.

We very much appreciate the assistance given by the county and city and will at all times work with them when we believe their programs to be in the best interest of the citizens of our Chamber area and Harrison County.

We once again propose that the mayor and/or one or more members of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce meet on an informal basis to discuss our mutual goals and projects.

It is our belief that such meetings would be to the benefit of the city, the Chamber of Commerce and the citizens of Pass Christian.

The Pass Christian Area Chamber of Commerce exists because we love the Gulf Coast, and especially the Pass Christian area.

We believe Pass Christian to be unique.

We want to keep what is good, improve what needs upgrading, and eliminate what is undesirable.

We would very much enjoy working with the city administration in a feeling of mutual respect and confidence, toward attainment of these goals.

Kiln Volunteers, water system

credited with saving many homes

March 19, 1981
The Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:
On Wednesday, March 18, 1981, the people of the Kiln Community can thank God and be thankful for the Kiln Volunteer Fire Department and the new community water system.

Had it not been for the Kiln Volunteer Fire Department and because of the Community Water System that has been in operation since only during the summer, I am not exaggerating when I state that probably a dozen or more homes may have been destroyed by fire.

The Kiln Volunteer Fire Department answered its first call at approximately 10 a.m. and worked diligently throughout the entire night.

Because of the water system the fire trucks were able to refill their tanks in a matter of seconds and be on their way to another call. With the very high winds and many threatening fires, numerous homes would have been destroyed had the same situation arisen prior to the community water system.

Also, the many young men of the community who joined in and giving their outstanding support to the Kiln Volunteer Fire Department are to be commended for a job well done.

I personally witnessed the expertise of the Kiln Volunteer Fire Department in action and wish to express my deepest gratitude because my home would have been one of those that would have probably been lost.

Sincerely,
Mike Ladner

Dear Sir:
I would like to congratulate and commend Fire Chief Andrew Lizana and all members of the Bay St. Louis Fire Department as well as all other county fire departments which joined in to fight a dangerous fire last Wednesday evening.

I am referring to the recent fire which burned several acres between Seube and Turner Streets near US-90. Working against the adverse conditions of high winds they were able to control the blaze and thereby prevent the loss of a single home.

Our community is fortunate to have such dedicated and well-trained personnel. Even the way in which other residents joined in to assist each other is very encouraging and they too are to be commended.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Sirs:
I wish to take this opportunity to commend the Bay St. Louis Fire Department for a job well done in putting out the brush fire on the night of March 18, 1981.

This wasn't a brush fire; it was a forest fire! Because of their prompt and efficient action, five homes on Ninth Street were saved.

I also want to thank my neighbors and friends who came to help. They were there with hoses, shovels, and muscles. This is just another reason for living in a small community.

And again, our thanks to all.

BaySide Volunteers stung by training attendance criticism

March 25, 1981
Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:
The BaySide Park Volunteer Fire Department recently was criticized in remarks by a county fire official quoted in The Sea Coast Echo in connection with members' failure to attend a scheduled firefighters training course.

We would like the people of Hancock County to know that we did not have time to go to the school.

We were fighting fires.
We do not have the money to have a man stand by the fire trucks all day and night.

We support this fire department by going out collecting dues and earning the money some kind of way.

We can't call up and say we need $300 and get it handed to us right away.

We only have a few men that work the fire department.

Most of our members are older men or disabled men so we do not have that many fire fighters.

We do the best that we can and we are getting tired of being ridiculed by some people.

We do not go to the newspaper every time we do something. We get praise from the people that we help and that's all we are looking for.

Our repairs for our trucks are taken care of by money that we earn or dues that we collect.

It takes money to make money so I guess we will always have to struggle. We had a write up in the paper about our dues being mailed to our Post Office but we never got any response.

There will be a shooting match on Sunday from noon 'till — $2 a shot, one winner out of 12.

This money will really help. Our monthly meetings are held on the third Tuesday of every month.

One of these days we will have our fire house but like everything else, it takes time.

There was a fire department in BaySide Park a long time ago.

They had all kinds of trouble so when BaySide Park Volunteer Fire Department was formed we had a terrible time to get people to join.

I think now the people know that it has changed and we wish they would help to support us.

If you want to donate or join our department your money can be mailed to P.O. Box 172C Lakeshore, Miss. 39572.

If you have any questions you can call the treasurer at 467-9771.

Your help is greatly appreciated.

Advocates of Coast rail passenger service threatened by budget cuts

March 16, 1981
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Gentlemen:
The Reagan administration is doing everything in its power to eliminate Amtrak. The Office of Business and Management is using the guise that Amtrak does not make a profit. The reasoning behind this proposal is very unfair. No mode of transport can successfully operate in this country without some form of government subsidy.

The Louisiana Association of Railroad Passengers strongly believes the elimination of rail passenger service, except the northeast corridor which is owned by Amtrak, would be the greatest blunder our nation would ever undertake.

If such a curtailment should occur, there would be very little chance of implementing a commuter service between New Orleans and the Mississippi Gulf Coast. There is the possibility, however, that the Reagan plan will not prevail on Capitol Hill.

There is a way we all can help. Please write your Congressman and your Senators, now, in Washington, D.C., (a post card will do). Tell them to vote to retain Amtrak and mass transit. Congress is holding hearings at the present time; so if you feel we should keep our trains, please write and so inform them.

You would be surprised to know how a lot of mail from the same area makes politicians take immediate notice.

So, if you wish to become involved, now is the time you may never have another chance.

With best wishes, I am

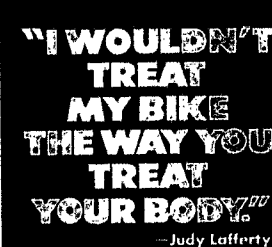

Sincerely yours,

John H. Sita

All candidates running for office in the upcoming city election have been invited to attend. A Concerned Citizens meeting scheduled today has been cancelled.

MISS USA MEETING

A general meeting for all volunteers interested in working with the Miss USA Pageant has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum. The 1981 Miss USA

Pageant will be conducted on the Mississippi Gulf Coast for the third consecutive year and will conclude with a telecast of the coronation of the new Miss USA live from the Coliseum on May 21.

USM ALUMNI EVENT

Alumni Association officials at the University of Southern Mississippi have announced plans for the annual March 30 observance of the university's founding. The annual celebration commemorates the establishment of USM by act of the Mississippi Legislature on that date in 1910, says Powell G. Ogletree, director of alumni affairs at USM. Local alumni will meet on Monday at Scafield's Wheel Inn Restaurant in Bay St. Louis. Plans include a cash bar and Joe Paul will be the guest speaker for the meeting.

Andrews named head of NORDA laboratory

Dr. James Andrews, marine geologist and geophysicist, native of Minneapolis and a 1963 graduate of Amherst College, has assumed the position of director of Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity's Ocean Science and Technology Laboratory at the National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County.

"The laboratory which is the major component of NORDA, initiates, plans and conducts scientific programs in physical, chemical and biological oceanography, mapping, charting and geodesy, ocean acoustics, sea floor studies, numerical ocean environmental modeling and other programs designed to advance the Navy's ocean technology base," a NORDA spokesman says.

"Until now, Dr. Herbert Eppert, who head the laboratory's Sea Floor Division, has been serving as acting laboratory director on an interim basis," the spokesman notes.

Andrews earned his PhD in Oceanography at the Institute of Marine Sciences of the University of Miami in 1967 and, ever since then, has worked and published in the field of marine geology and geophysics.

He has served as an assistant and associate professor of oceanography at the University of Hawaii at Manoa and as chairman of the department of Oceanography there.

Andrews has served twice as chief scientist for the Deep Sea Drilling Project. He was elected a fellow of the Geological Society of America in 1972. He has also served on the Governor's Committee on Hawaii, and the Sea—the first state sponsored counterpart to the Stratton Report.

In 1976, Andrews was awarded the Humboldt Prize (U.S. Senior Scientist Award) by the government of the Federal Republic of Germany.

"This prize was in recognition of outstanding scientific achievement at the international level," the spokesman notes.

Just prior to his arrival at NORDA, Andrews was involved in research in the application of military sonar systems to long range side scan mapping; the deep ocean environment and its influence on sediment and manganese nodule deposits; evaluation of the deep ocean environment as a site for a large cherenkov detector; development of submarine drainage patterns around the Hawaiian Islands, influences of man's activities on these and their potential as pathways for waste disposal.

"This work was supported by the Office of Naval Research, the National Science Foundation, the State of Hawaii, NOAA and U.S. Industry."

Andrews and his wife, Nona, will reside in Slidell.

To the Citizens of Bay St. Louis:

After much soul searching and deliberation, I have decided not to seek re-election as Councilman from the First District.

The position of Councilman has been more time consuming and demanding than I had anticipated. I have willingly devoted myself to serve as your Councilman and given freely of my time. I have strived to do my best and have tried to give you good city government. At times it has been rewarding and at other times frustrating, but always educational.

At this time I want to devote more time to my family and my private interests.

I wish to thank all of you who have supported me on the City Council, also to express my gratitude to my employer, the Coast Coca Cola Bottling Company, as they have been more than generous in allowing me time off during business hours when it was necessary for me to attend to city business and functions. My special thanks to my family who have put up with me for the past four years, giving encouragement and at times consolation.

To all those who aspire to be candidates in the upcoming city election, I offer you my best wishes, but be prepared to sacrifice some of your leisure time.

Once again, I thank all of you for your support and encouragement and maybe sometime in the distant future, God willing, I may again ask for your support as a candidate.

Sincerely,

However, Boudin is looking for additional information regarding the two other obstacles and asks residents to call his office at 467-9226.

He requests any clue which might lead to identification of owners.

One of the hazards is a concrete slab located about 600 feet offshore near Three Oaks Bayou.

The object is thought to be remnants of a lighthouse.

Boudin notes a steel hull research vessel was severely damaged about one year ago when it struck this hidden slab.

The other obstacle is a steel barge located between Lighthouse Point and St. Joseph Point (known locally as Long Point).

The Civil Defense director said on several occasions boaters have hit the sunken barge ripping motors from the sterns of vessels.

"There's no way right now I can identify the owner of the sunken barge near Long Point," Boudin said.

"I would love to mark these obstacles, but if I do Hancock County could be subject to a lawsuit," he noted.

"We can move some of these floating hazards, but we don't have the equipment or resources to move these larger ones," Boudin stated.

The Civil Defense director said he will request assistance from the Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources in Long Beach.

Boudin hopes BMR can mark and maintain hazard markers until the objects are removed.

The Civil Defense director has also contacted the U.S. Coast Guard for assistance, but has received no reply to his inquiry.

according to investigators.

"There is really nothing we can do," Genin said.

Genin said he believes new laws passed by the Louisiana Legislature allow Jefferson Parish Sheriff's Department officials to arrest area businesses allegedly dealing in pornography.

"Those new laws may also be declared unconstitutional in the future," Genin said.

Jefferson law enforcement officials currently are severely constrained in their efforts against parish pornography operations by an injunction obtained by alleged pornography dealers who contend the new laws are unconstitutional.

Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams said his department has been 'checking around to see if anything is going in and out.'

"But we have never seen anything unusual," he said.

"You have got to have probable cause in order to go in and search the area and we do not have that yet."

Williams said the law does not favor unrestrained searching of a business or arresting businessmen without probable cause.

He pointed to Harry Lee of the Jefferson Parish Police Department and the trouble they now have because of their actions.

"From what I understand the police are not allowed to even drive by the businesses which were allegedly dealing in pornography," he said.

Buccola said he was at the warehouse in Bay St. Louis Monday with Ames Kergosien, another Bay St. Louis realtor, to appraise the building.

"We went through the whole building and there is nothing in it except a couple of office desks and a secretary," Buccola said.

I do not think they will be here at the end of next month," he added.

Buccola said he thought the business wanted to move.

"The lease ran out last year in June," he said.

"Since then they have been paying on a month-by-month basis."

He said he rented the business to a firm which told him they were in the import-export business.

Governor William Winter has named Artigues to the state's Coastal Energy Impact Allocation Committee and the Mississippi Coastal Zone Management Committee.

He is a member of the Knights of Columbus, American Legion Post No. 139, Our Lady of The Gulf Catholic Church, and a past member of the Bay St. Louis Jaycees.

Artigues has been self-employed as a home builder in the Bay St. Louis area for the past ten years.

The candidate, his wife Marcia and children Ronnie Jr., Jay and Ashley reside on Highland Drive in Bay St. Louis.

"If elected, I will strive for unity in Bay St. Louis and attempt to provide good leadership for our community," Artigues said in announcing his candidacy Wednesday.

Circuit Court has ruled unconstitutional the justice court system's method of hearing civil cases because it allows litigants to 'forum-shop,' or find judges more likely to rule in their favor," the report explains.

"The appeals court also held that the system for hearing criminal cases in Hinds County is unconstitutional because the county has two justice court judges in each supervisor's district, allowing law enforcement officer to forum-shop," the MEC article continues.

"Also, the court strongly indicated its disapproval of paying justice court judges by the fee system. Legislators have disagreed over whether the appeals court ruled that the fee system itself is unconstitutional," the reports adds.

Smith noted the bill is based on the Fifth Circuit Court rulings.

The senator said the measure also requires suits be filed against defendants in their resident district.

"Fees judges are now retaining would go into a fund to support salaries," the senator added.

A Senate study subcommittee recently recommended temporary justice court judge salaries effective Oct. 1982 ranging from $2,000 to $24,000 per year based on district population.

The House is proposing a permanent salary system ranging from $2,500 to $30,000 be implemented in 1984 with a reduced number of full-time judges.

The subcommittee also recommended counties be allowed to levy a one mill property tax where adequate revenue isn't generated by the courts.

But Smith stated, "With Hancock County judges' combined earnings of $180,000 last year, additional millage won't be needed to support those officials."

Stressing a need for quick action, Smith said, "There is no other place a merchant can go to collect a debt under $500 other than justice court. That's why it's so important that we get these officials back in business."

GULF PARK BILL

Long Beach legislators have revived a bill expanding courseloads at The University of Southern Mississippi at Gulf Park.

The measure, which died in committee recently, calls for abolishing statutes permitting only part-time courseloads at the Long Beach facility.

Sen. George Smith of Long Beach this week introduced a resolution requesting suspension of legislative deadlines for reconsideration of the bill.

The Senate Universities and Colleges Committee killed the bill earlier this month in a 5-6 vote.

Rep. Jim Simpson, also of Long Beach, has filed a similar resolution in the House.

The resolutions, if both are accepted, would revive the bill for reconsideration by the committee.

When asked his opinion of the Gulf Park legislation, Smith replied, "I have not been exposed to the bill and I haven't gotten facts and information to express an opinion."

Man charged with arson

By BRENT MACEY

A Flat Top community resident was arrested Sunday by the Mississippi State Game and Fish Department officials and the Hancock County Sheriff's Department and charged with arson for allegedly lighting brush fires in the Flat Top Community Sunday afternoon.

Sheriff Department Investigator Delbert Seay said, Norman E. Miller, 53, was arrested Sunday approximately 7:25 p.m. after a witness who allegedly saw Miller lighting fires with matches notified police officials.

Seay said Miller signed a statement at the Sheriff's Department admitting to setting fires.

Miller was released on $10,000 bond. Pat Toomey and C.J. Carson of the Mississippi State Game and Fish Department, Sheriff Department Auxiliary Deputy Albert Necaise and Seay made the arrest.

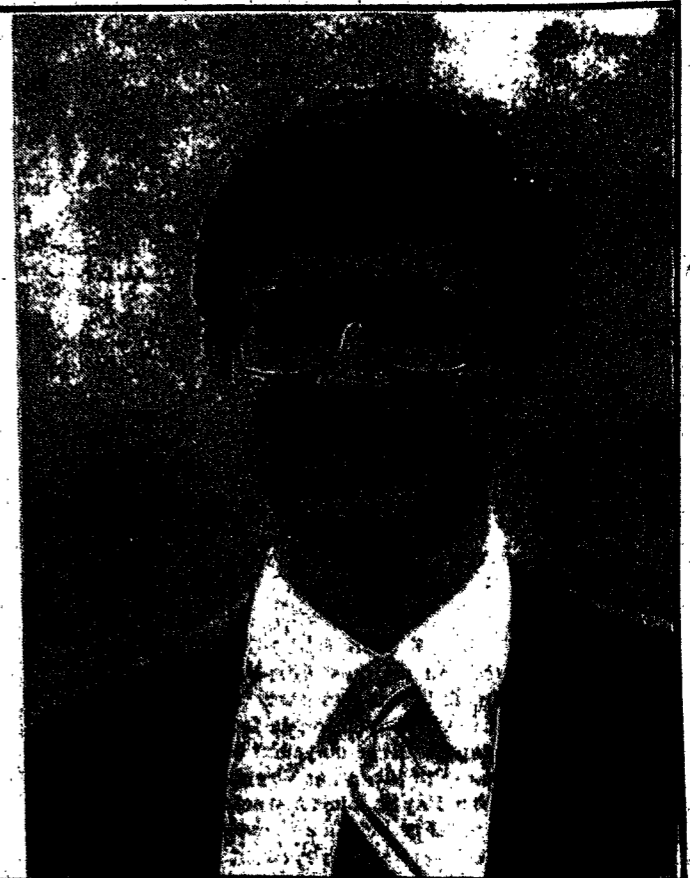

Vic Franckiewicz a new mayor

Progress under our strong mayor form of government depends on good management in the mayor's office.

Professionally, my qualifications are a master's degree in city planning, and seven years of experience in government. But on a more personal level, I am a native of Bay St. Louis. I grew up here, and I know the kind of place Bay St. Louis can be. Like my parents before me, and my grandparents before them, I want this community to improve and prosper.

With a $3 million budget, it is only right to expect Bay St. Louis to be a better city.

USM SPRING ROUNDUP—Recruiters Margaret O'Neil, left, Margie Putnam and Maurice Singleton prepare for the University of Southern Mississippi's Spring Roundup, a day of orientation and entertainment for high school seniors and junior college transfers.

USM lists high school day events

Officials in High School and Junior College Relations at The University of Southern Mississippi have announced the annual Spring Roundup for high school seniors and junior college transfers will be held April 10.

The day will begin at 9:30 a.m. in Reed Green Coliseum and will end at approximately 2 p.m.

Transfer students are encouraged to bring transcripts for evaluation. Visits to residence halls, admissions and financial aid, fraternities-sororities, and special student organizations are planned.

The theme for the day is traditionally western. Jeans and cowboy hats will be the apparel for the day.

USM Housing Director Bob Kivetz, urges prospective students to complete applications during the day.

According to Kivetz there has been a heavy demand for on-campus housing and an early application may insure a room assignment for Fall Semester.

Billie Allen, director of High School and Junior College Relations at USM, said, "We believe in personal service that caters to the needs of students. So, while at Spring Roundup, students will have an opportunity to visit with faculty members in the departments that they are interested in. Teaching, in all its facets, is the first purpose of a university, and USM is no exception."

Following a complimentary lunch, attendance cards will be presented to participants.

For additional information contact High School and Junior College Relations, Box 5166, Southern Station, Hattiesburg, MS 39401 or telephone toll free 1-800-222-1604.

Psychologist explains hyperactive children

The March meeting of Mississippi Association of Children with Learning Disabilities. Hancock County Chapter was conducted recently at Scaffidi's Wheel Inn Restaurant in Bay St. Louis at 8:30 p.m. with Dr. Catherine Lundy of Gulf Coast Mental Health Center in Gulfport as guest speaker.

Lundy is a psychologist with the organization.

Also at the March meeting, Lois Abrams and Mary Baughman were appointed to a nominating committee to help select officers for the year.

Marion Dailey, chapter president says, "We are the only MACLD Chapter on the Gulf Coast. We are still meeting people who don't know there is a chapter on the Gulf Coast, so we need to pass the word to all our friends about this organization and what we are trying to do."

"Also many people may not realize we have a shelf in the City-County Library in Bay St. Louis with speeches, tapes, and booklets we have acquired throughout the year. Just ask at the desk and ask for the MACLD material," Dailey recommends.

"Lundy discussed hyperactivity in children, stating hyperactivity is the most common, childhood disorder in children from infancy through adolescence with about 90 percent of these children being boys," Dailey reports.

"If this problem is not detected and corrected a child could be classified as a trouble maker or disruptive. With proper help from a classroom teacher and parents these children can be treated," Dailey added.

Lundy listed some of the symptoms of hyperactivity which includes a short attention span, learning impediment—nearly one-third of these children have a prominent learning impairment, a notable academic lag, behavioral problems with misconduct notable in over 80 percent of the cases, Dailey says.

"A hyperactive child is told 'no, no, no,' much more than other children by parents, teachers and older sisters and brothers. So these children develop a bad self image. Sometimes a parent, teacher or other children can cause these children to fail in school by not knowing the child's limits. Parents and teachers should set up a 'fail free' environment to help them overcome this problem," Lundy suggests.

"If your child is an inefficient problem-solver, help him learn to slow down and process information through the use of language. Help these children become good problem-solvers by modeling good problem-solving to them," Lundy recommends.

"Lundy's complete speech is on file at the City-County Library on the SLD shelf along with other material distributed by Lundy," Dailey reports.

For more information about meetings of the Hancock Chapter of ACLD contact Dailey at 255-9287.

Bay school District's Special Education Program explained

The goal of the Bay St. Louis Municipal-Separate School District Special Education Program is to provide opportunities for identification, evaluation, adjustment, and learning of children under the age of 21 who are physically, mentally, communicatively and/or emotionally handicapped says program director Dr. Brenda Scaffidi.

"Identification of children in need of special educational experiences is most important in promoting each child's academic achievement, social competency, pre-occupational adequacy, and other personal development within the total school community," she notes.

"In order to provide necessary free public education it is necessary to find and identify all children in need of special education as early as possible," Scaffidi explains.

"Bay St. Louis schools provided free appropriate public educational programming for all identified handicapped students ages six through 20 as of Sept. 1, 1980, and expects to provide the same for students zero through 21 by the year 2000," she reports.

"Information which could identify an individual child is and will continue to be maintained by the school district and will be provided to other agencies only in accordance with the Family Rights and Privacy Act," Scaffidi states.

"Parents as legal guardians are guaranteed the right to inspect any information about their child and to challenge its accuracy. Access to this information is forbidden to any unauthorized person without the parents or guardians informed consent," she reports.

"During the 1980-81 school year the school district provided two programs for speech and/or language handicapped students, provided five programs for children with specific learning disabilities, served mildly retarded students in four programs, conducted a full-time program for emotionally handicapped students, and initiated a special counseling project that evaluated and therapeutically served students 'in-crisis' at each of the four schools in the district," Scaffidi explains.

"If you have a child or know of a child who might need special education for a specific handicap or handicapping condition please contact me by calling 467-1021, or by writing Dr. Brenda Scaffidi, Bay Senior High School, Blue Meadow Road, Bay St. Louis, Miss 39520," Scaffidi recommends.

Parliamentary procedure workshop offered at USM

The University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg is offering a workshop in 'Beginning Parliamentary Procedure.'

"The purpose of the workshop is to assist high school teachers and officers of civic, cultural, and business organizations in using parliamentary procedure," a university spokesman says.

"There are no prerequisites for the non-credit workshop, and anyone may enroll. The workshop will be taught by Dr. Robert Burr Cade of the USM faculty," the spokesman notes.

The workshop will be conducted on the weekend of April 10 and 11 (Friday, 8:30 p.m. to 10:00 p.m.; Saturday, 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.)

"This course provides 10 hours of instruction. The cost of the workshop is $30 plus $1.50 for a textbook, 'Robert's Rules of Order,'" the spokesman explains.

"Participants who wish Continuing Education Credit (1 unit) will pay a $5 fee. The workshop will be in Room 104 Southern Hall, on USM's Hattiesburg campus," the spokesman reports.

"Organization officers who enroll for the workshop should bring a copy of their constitution and bylaws; the workshop will assist them in using their bylaws to conduct meetings. Special emphasis will be placed on the preparation of minutes," the spokesman notes.

"The workshop will combine lectures, class discussions, and actual practice in parliamentary procedure," the spokesman adds.

SHOW DOWN—Will the villainous Black 'n Red kill Lily and Rose? Will Wild Bill Hickok and the faithful Pong-Ping save them? Who is La Paloma aiming at? Who will emerge victorious? Actors are, from left, Susan Smith, Walter Vaughn, Elizabeth Hart, Jeanne-Marie Bell, Hansel Baxter, and Frank Richter.

'Deadwood Dick' opening at Waveland Civic Center

The Waveland Players present 'Deadwood Dick or, The Game of Gold,' starting tomorrow night at 8:15 p.m. in the Waveland Civic Center on Coleman Ave.

Other performances are Saturday at 8:15 p.m., Sunday at 3 p.m.; and again the following weekend on Friday and Saturday, April 3 and 4 at 8:15 p.m.

Tickets are $3 and are available only at the door. "Come early to get a good table! Doors will open at 7:30 p.m. in the evenings, and at 2:15 p.m. on Sunday," a theater spokesman says.

"Written by Tom Taggart, and based on the 'Dime Novels' of Edward L. Wheeler, 'Deadwood Dick' can also be seen on April 10 at the Diamondhead Country Club for an evening of dinner-theatre, by reservation only," the spokesman notes.

The play is an action-packed Gay-90's Melodrama with music, in three acts.

"Not only will you be spending an evening at Calamity-Jane's Man-Trap Saloon; you will also be entertained during intermissions by our own Saloon Girls, who perform spirited dances and songs," the spokesman reports.

"The Waveland Players are proud to announce that the evening will begin with entertainment by the Sweet Adeline's Quartet," the spokesman says.

"Directed by Ted Stechmann and Terry Simpson, and produced by Dick Fitch, 'Deadwood Dick' promises an exciting evening of laughs, boos, cheers, and you-name-it," the spokesman states.

"Heading the cast is Walter Vaughn as the villainous Black 'n Red, who gives the finest performance in his long career. Superb performances are also offered in lead roles by Anthony Poffenbarger as Ned Harris, Frank Richter as Wild Bill Hickok, Susan Smith as Lily, Elizabeth Hart as Rose, Ed Craig as Judge Nix, Barbara Jo Fitch as Calamity-Jane, Hansel Baxter as La Paloma, Jeanne-Marie Bell as Pong-Ping, Ed Ling as Chet Pussy, Bunk Gardner as Sheriff Loveless, Dottie Overal as Molly Loveless, GRAB 'EM—Walter Vaughn, center, as the villainous Black 'n Red, scheming to do evil to his victims who are, from left, Anthony Poffenbarger as Ned Harris, Elizabeth Hart as Rose Blossom, Susan Smith as Lily Blossom, and Frank Richter as Wild Bill Hickok.

Edith Bierhorst Back as Teetotal Tessie, and Pam Baumgartner as Piano Annie," the spokesman explains.

"They are supported by Daryl Choina, Terry Simpson and Derek Stechmann as Miners; Jeannie Moran and Herta Lewis as Temperance Workers; and Janet Aime, Beryl Lynch, Frances Mitteer, Caroline Adam, Catchie Choina, Alla Mae Lambert, Jannelle McLain, Barbara Pursley, Amy Welch, Nicola Dietrich, Connie Moran, Connie Ellis, Cola Dietrich, Teresa Ehrlich, Monica Parker, Hansel Baxter (La Paloma), Christy McNeal, and Piccola Dietrich as the Saloon Girls," the spokesman further explained.

Refreshments will be available during intermissions.

"No play can go on without the dedication and long hours of hard work by members of its crew. They are Frank Gray (Lights), Danny Williams (Spot), Jean Keen (Accompanist), Piccola Dietrich (Choreography), Piccola Dietrich and Gerry Comiskey (Costumes), Dick Fitch (Sound), Meta Garside (Program and Script), Dana O'Meallie (Properties), Dick Fitch, Terry Simpson, Daryl Choina, and Tim Whitworth (Set Construction), Norma Simpson (Tickets), Sid Dousan and Joe Overal (Concessions), Nan Bradley (Make-up), Meta Garside, Jeanne-Marie Bell, and Edith Bierhorst Back (Publicity)," the spokesman reports.

"From director, to star, to stagehand, the long months of rehearsals have been full of dedication, harmony, fun, and lots of laughs. The Waveland Players urge you to join with them in a lively evening of old-fashioned entertainment," the spokesman adds.

HEATING BILL ASSISTANCE—Lily Hazeur, left, Hancock County administrator for the Community Action Agency at 300 Third Street in Bay St. Louis presents a check to Matti Saman, center, and Juanita Slemssen for assistance with the cost of their heating bill. Funds are available through the Low Income Energy Assistance Program administered by Gulf Coast Community Action. Hazeur is urging people to come to the Webb Center 'immediately' to fill out applications for assistance. "Income verifications will be required," she said. Athella Piernas, deputy director in the Gulfport administrative office, said she felt the assistance money will be withdrawn when warm weather sets in and also advises low income people to act immediately. "After April if there is still money left, they may freeze it," she said in reference to the federal government. She also feels funds may be withdrawn before that time since Hancock County has used only 65 percent of the money allocated and other counties which have no more funds may be allocated the money remaining in this county. Library sponsoring children's contest

As part of the National Library Week activities, the Hancock County Library System is conducting trivia contests for students in grades four thru 12.

"Students wishing to participate in the contest should pick up a list of questions for their grade level beginning April 1 at either the Bay St. Louis, Kiln, or Waveland libraries," says Becky Mitchum, children's services coordinator.

"The list containing 25 questions for each contest include trivia, reference, and local history topics as well as a tie breaker question," Mitchum notes.

"The fourth through sixth grade winner will receive a copy of the 'Guinness Book of World's Records,' the seventh through ninth grade winner will receive a 'World Almanac,' Winner of the 10th through 12th grade contest will receive 'The American Heritage Dictionary.'

For more information, contact Mitchum at 467-5262.

Perk comedy group on high school tour

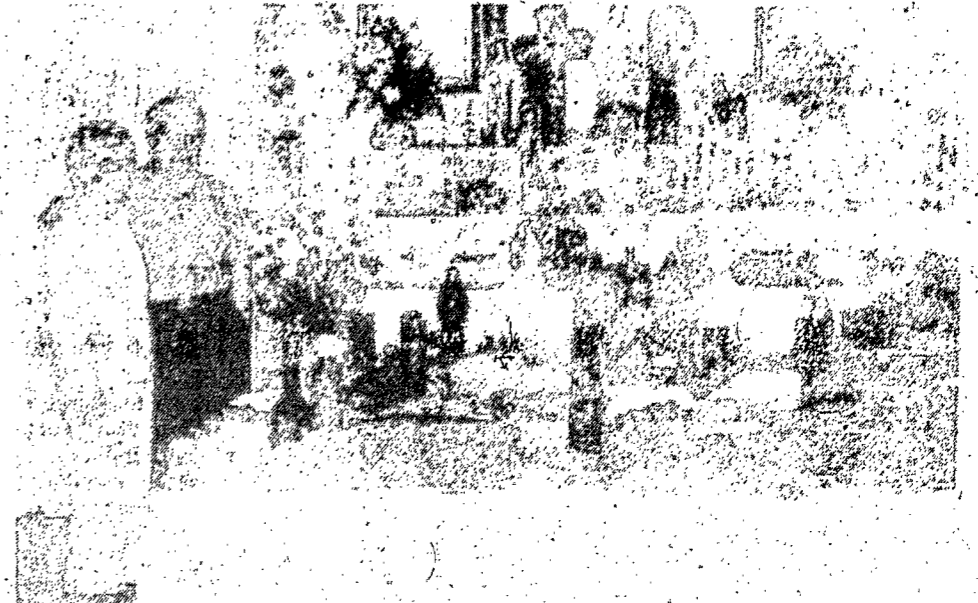

The Krewe of Komeidy, a theatre group from Gulf Coast Junior College's Perkinston Campus, will tour area high schools during April, announced Kathryn Lewis.

Lewis, speech and drama instructor at Perkinston, said the tour begins on Thursday, April 2. "The group will present a collage of contemporary humorous work by several writers, including Mark Twain, Erma Bombeck, and Steve Martin.

Cast members are Tracy Pigford, Hurley; Dana Norris and Bill Lipscomb, both of Gulfport; Paul Sessum and Marlin Seal, Long Beach.

High schools interested in the group should contact Lewis through the campus admissions office, 928-5211.

FOOD ALTAR—Mr. and Mrs. Tony Morreale stand near a food altar constructed in their home recently commemorating St. Joseph's Day and the recovery of Mr. Morreale from a period of illness. Numerous friends and relatives contributed to preparing the many elaborate dishes which include, shrimp, crab, oysters, stuffed artichokes, lucky beans, bread, and cakes; a task which took over a month in preparation. St. Joseph, Mary and Jesus were portrayed during the day by Pete Morreale, Michele Chiniche, and Jason Perniclaro, respectively. Three circular breads toward the front of the altar signify each saint. The cross and cane near the statue of St. Joseph at the top of the altar are also made of bread. A cake on the table is in the shape of the bible. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

Hancock Cable hosts system-wide seminar

Hancock Community Cable, Inc. of Waveland was host this week to an office management and marketing conference staged by Lamar Communications, Inc. of Jackson. The two-day event spanned a wide range of topics, including why cable television?, corporate accounting requirements and procedures, computer language and usage, reporting systems, marketing, advertising, and system demands.

Albert L. Lamar, Lamar Communications president, stressed both value and direction of his company's marketing and advertising programs.

Other speakers included Crystal Hoda, White Cypress, and Marlene Cuevas, Nacale Crossing, office manager and computer supervisor respectively, both of Hancock Community Cable, and Kathy Madden, cable systems accounting supervisor, Jackson. Also present and the systems they represented, were Sharon Cap, Crystal Spring-Hazellhurst; Donna Dennis, Mendenhall; Monique McCaskill, Apalchicola, and Jo Taylor, Havana, Fla.

Barbara Waters of Home Box Office's Atlanta office, represented that company, while the movie channel's role was explained by Leslie Shaeffer, also of Atlanta.

All sessions were held in Gulf National Bank's Public Room, US-90, Bay St. Louis. The seminar was coordinated by the Lamar Communication Training Center, also located at the company's facility on St. Joseph Street in Waveland.

Lamar Communications, Inc. is the operating and management arm of Lamar Cablesystems, Inc., Lamar Cablesystems, Inc. (Florida), ablepartners (1980).

Currently operating five cable television systems, the company has an additional system under construction in Mississippi and is franchised to build in two additional Florida cities this year.

Two University of Southern Mississippi history professors have received National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) summer grants to continue research on books they are working on. The two professors are Drs. Neil McMillen and David Bodenhamer. McMillen's book is entitled "Black Journey: A History of Black Mississippians in the Era of Jim Crow." Bodenhamer is working on a study of crime and legal response to criminal disorder in antebellum Georgia.

Jackson State names trio to Hall of Fame

Three former Jackson State University athletes are scheduled to be inducted into the University's Sports Hall of Fame on March 28. The banquet and induction ceremony, JSU's eighth annual, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Jacob L. Reddix Campus Union.

Ben Magee, Wiley White and Robert Cooper are the nominees for induction. Florida A&M's legendary former head football coach Alonzo (Jake) Gaither will be the featured speaker.

Magee, a 1964 graduate of Jackson State, was an outstanding defensive lineman. During his college career at JSU, Magee was named Pittsburg Courier All-American, NAIA All-American and he was a two-time All-Southwestern Athletic Conference performer. After graduating from Jackson State, Magee turned in a brilliant nine-year professional career with the Pittsburgh Steelers. Magee is presently serving as head football coach of the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff.

Cooper, presently the director of the JSU campus union and chairman of the Athletic Committee, is a 1949 Tiger graduate. Cooper lettered three consecutive years in football. An outstanding left guard, Cooper played both offense and defense for three years not missing a game.

White played center for the Tiger football team in the early 50's. He is presently a principal in the California

Public School System. Tickets for the banquet and induction ceremony are $10 each and can be obtained from Dr. Walter Reed (968-2291) and Ms. Bobbie N. Oatis (968-2327).

PVT. JERRIE LULEL
Army Pvt. Jerrie L. Lulel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremie L. Lulel of 403 Wainwright St. in Waveland, is attending basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

"During the training, students receive instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions," an Army spokesman reports.

PVT. DEDEAUX
Army Private Dwight J. Dedeaux, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald J. Dedeaux Sr. of Route 3, DeLisle, recently completed infantry advanced individual training with the 1st Infantry Division at Fort Riley, Kan.

Students received training on the basic weapons used in a squad and platoon. They also received instruction in squad tactics and firing, patrolling, and escape and evasion.

BOATING HAZARD—Robert (Bobby) Boudin, director of the Hancock County Civil Defense, sets a flag in waters approximately 600 feet South of Three Oaks Bayou locating a solid 15-foot-long slab of concrete which can only be seen at very low tide. Anyone familiar with what this slab is should contact either the civil defense or The Sea Coast Echo. Remains of an old iron sunken barge protruding from low tide waters approximately mid-way between Lighthouse Point and St. Joseph's Point (known locally as Long Point) were also noted by Boudin. Boudin said the U.S. Army Corp of Engineers are expected to mark both obstructions this week to prevent further mishaps to boaters and fisherman in these waters. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

WE LOVE YOU LUNCHEON—Senior citizens recently invited to the home of Gloria B. Landry in Diamondhead for lunch and a game of bingo for prizes are, clockwise from left at table, Francis Benigno, Mary Necaise, Ida Necaise, Ellen Peterson, Carrie Gatewood, Mabel Depree, and Evelyn Farve. Landry formed the 'We Love You Luncheons' for senior citizens in the Diamondhead Kill Area. "We should do more for our Senior Citizens to ward off loneliness," Landry said. Each month Landry with the help of volunteers entertains eight senior citizens at her home for a few hours in the afternoon. "This seems to be such an enjoyable outing for those who stay at home so much. I would love to see this grow in other communities by having other ladies follow this same format," she said. Attending the luncheon are, standing from left, volunteer Gladys Schultz, Landry, and volunteer Opel Hickman. For more information contact Gloria B. Landry at 255-9652. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

Pass girls dominate

Rock's Joe Saia named league's most valuable

By EDGAR PEREZ
St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaw Joe Saia is the outstanding player of the year among the Pascagoula River All-Conference 1981 boys basketball selections. Rock teammates Richard Brown and Dave McDonnell are also named to the all-conference team.

Bay High's Andy Barrett and Darrell Robinson along with Pass High's Scott Woods are first-team all-conference choices.

Honorable mention honors went to Roger Woodall, Keith Johnson and Kevin Owen, all of Bay High.

St. Stanislaus shared the conference championship honors this year with d'Iberville.

Mike Perkins of St. Martin was named coach of the year. Other first-team all-conference selections include Tommy Collier, James Evans and Tracy Durdine, all of d'Iberville; Scott Stafford and Jimmy Hughes, both of St. Martin; Doc Reddix and Phillip McMillan, both of Vancleave; and Isaac Wells of East Central.

Others on the honorable mention squad are Mike Pino and Steve Marro, both of St. Martin; Ezelle Burton, Vancleave; and Alonzo Liddell, East Central.

PASS GIRLS LEAD
Pass Christian's Pirates dominated the girls all-conference selections with the team championship and three players on the all-conference team.

Glinda Martin, Tammie Dedaux and Fran Jacobs, all Pass juniors, were named to the all-conference squad.

Karen Tillman and Linda McCarthy are Bay High's representatives on the first string all-conference team. Bay High's Janice Almond, Barbara Gillum and Robin Jackson received honorable mention. Other all-conference players are Sandra Rushing, Angele Wolfe and Susan Polster, all of d'Iberville; Darlene Powe, Carole Savikie and Mary Carter, all of East Central; Jamie Hall of St. Martin, and Martha Pendergrass, Vancleave. Also cited for honorable mention are Chatsa Wells and Lucy Sanford, both of East Central; Rose Braeley, Pam Williams and Patti Williams, all of St. Martin; and Tracy Neal, Vancleave.

d'Iberville's Rushing is the girls conference player-of-the-year and Rudolph Walther of East Central took coach-of-the-year honors.

Bay-Waveland area soccer clubs set first post season tournament

By RANDY PONDER
A post season soccer tournament is slated for Saturday, April 11, at St. Augustine Seminary in Bay St. Louis.

Approximately two hundred area youths will be involved in the tournament in which thirteen teams will participate.

Teams are grouped according to age with classifications of under 8, under 10, and under 12 in the boys division and under 12, and under 16 in the girls division.

The single elimination tournament will be played on the two fields behind St. Augustine. Each contest consists of two 20 minute halves, with the first game set for 9 a.m.

A pre-registration table will be set up for anyone wishing to join a team for next season. Refreshments will also be available.

Anyone wishing additional information should contact area director, Tom Demboski, 467-4773.

Wildcats drop pair to Wisconsin State

Pearl River Junior College dropped a twinbill to Wisconsin State, 13-6 and 11-4, Thursday as weather conditions continued to hamper the Wildcats.

Wind was a prime factor in Diamondhead Women golf results told

Diamondhead Women's Golf Association reported the following winners in a Thursday event using score on back nine with half handicap:

First Flight: Corine Ladner, winner; Lee Arnold, runner-up; and Jane Moses, low puts.

Second Flight: Doris Wattigney, winner; Ida Mae Snow, runner-up; and Vi Kirk, low puts.

Third Flight: Milly Rubin, winner; Molly Matranga, runner-up; and Marge Pfugfelder, low puts.

Closest to the pin on No. 15 was Marge Pfugfelder.

the doubleheader loss to Wisconsin State on Wednesday and it continued to be a force to be reckoned with.

The Wildcats exploded for six runs in the third inning against Wisconsin State in the opener, highlighted by first baseman David Oakes' grand slam home run.

Jeff Graves, Joe Newcomer, John Sorrells, Wayne Best and Lavell Knight had hits for Pearl River. Newcomer had a double while Sorrells and Knight had two hits apiece.

"The wind was awful and it was cold and the dust was blowing up," head coach J. C. Arban said. "They were terrible conditions to play in."

"We finally woke up and started to swing the bats," Arban said of the first game uprising.

Scott Ray was better around in the first game but according to Arban, Anthony Patterson came on to do a fine job in relief.

In the second game, Newcomer, Best and Mark Griffith got in some pitching time.

Arcement to play in Junior All-Star

Pearl River Junior College will be well represented at the annual Mississippi Junior College All-Star Basketball game on Monday, March 30, at Holmes Junior College in Goodman.

Faith Harrell and Lawana Johnson of the Lady Wildcat squad and Barry Arcement from the Wildcat basketball team have been selected to play in the all-star classic. PRC head basketball coach Billy Holmes has also been selected to coach the boys' South All-Star team.

The women's game will tip off at 6 p.m. and the men's contest is set for 8 p.m. Richard Williams from Co-Lin will assist Holmes and Lucille Woods from East Central will handle the south girls' squad.

Five-foot-eight point guard Barry Arcement will represent PRC on the men's team. He averaged 8 points per contest and was the Wildcats' floor leader. He played every minute of the action for the Wildcats during the last 14 games. Arcement is a former player for the Hancock North Central Hawks.

Faith Harrell of Poplarville is finishing up her sophomore year here at PRC. She averaged 9 points per contest and was a starter for the Lady Wildcats all year.

Johnson, a 5-10 center from New Iberia, La. is also a sophomore and she averaged 13 points per contest. Johnson and Harrell were instrumental in the Lady Wildcats posting their best season ever here at Pearl River.

The Lady 'Cats were regular season South Division Champs and that rating earned the PRC girls a trip to the Mississippi overall playoffs and the National Junior College Region Seven tournament at Memphis. The PRC girls finished up 19-9.

Holmes is finishing up his third year here at PRC and was the only coach in Mississippi last year to handle girls and boys teams in intercollegiate play. Last year his Wildcats posted a 18-8 record—the best PRC record in more than 20 years.

SPORTS

PRC golfer is medalist

Pearl River College's golf team has had only one bright spot this season and that was the play of sophomore Mike Lott in the Gulf Coast Invitational Tournament held at Pine Burr Country Club in Wiggins.

Lott shot a 77 and was named the medalist winner over 50 other golfers from six participating junior colleges. However, as a team, the Wildcats finished in fifth place.

Last week at Hinds, the outcome was a little better as the 'Cats finished fourth out of six. According to Herbert Morris, the golf coach, PRC was lucky to do that well. "The playing conditions were simply terrible," Morris said, "it was cold, windy, and our inexperience really played a big role in the outcome."

This week the PRC golfers hope to regroup and travel to Meridian for a six-team tournament at the end of April," Morris said.

Playing for the Wildcats are Lott of Poplarville; Lance Larson, Oak Grove; Bobby Moorhead, North Forrest; Donald Burge, Poplarville; John Bailey, Pine, La.; Geri Grubbs, Picayune; and Roman Penton of Poplarville.

Hancock USM alumni to meet at Wheel Inn

Joe Paul, assistant vice president for student affairs at the University of Southern Mississippi, will be the featured speaker when the Hancock County Chapter of the USM Alumni Association meets on March 30 to celebrate "USM Day."

More than 75 groups will meet across the country on or about that date to mark the founding of the University on March 30, 1910.

Hancock County alumni will hold a dinner meeting at the Wheel Inn Restaurant on Highway 90 at 6 p.m. on March 30. Contact Virginia A. Milazzo for reservation details.

Paul holds both the bachelor's and master's degrees from Southern and has been a member of the staff for several years. He is very active in professional organizations and has published a number of articles in his field. He will up-date local alumni on happenings on the campus and answer questions.

Dedeaux horse wins Oak Downs feature

(Special to The Sea Coast Echo)
PEARL RIVER, La.—Petite Sir, a thoroughbred from Lafayette, and Afore Hammond, won the two feature races Sunday at Oak Downs.

Petite Sir, owned by Garland Dedeaux, captured the $900 purse 11th race, with an easy victory over Rabbit's Habit and Tuscon. Petite Sir, clocked in 37.4 seconds, was ridden by Todd Dupuis of New Iberia in the 3/8-mile race.

Dedeaux is a native of nearby Hancock County and the Dedeaux Community, but resides now in Lafayette.

Afore Deck, a shiny black quarterhorse owned by Hammond's Mike Puma, also was an easy winner in the 350-yard feature race for two-year-olds.

Afore Deck, ridden by Leo

Fricke, was clocked in a Class AA time of 18.49 seconds. Far behind were Quite A Man, Snappy and Prince Albert. Puma is a former Slidell businessman.

In other races, Kristi Mulford's Prince won the pony race for the third week in a row. The pony and owner are from Wiggins.

Next Sunday's feature race will pit a number of top three-year-old thoroughbreds going 3/8-mile with an entry fee of $300 each. The race will be run at 4 p.m. Post time for the first race is 1 p.m.

Two match races featuring top quarterhorses have been scheduled for Sunday. In a 250-yard test, Jet Oh Lena, owned and trained by Donice Thompson of Folsom, will go against Omega Diana, owned by John Paul Amacker, the Poplarville, Miss., trainer who is in first place in the trainer standings.

In a 350-yard race carrying an entry fee of $500 each, Oscar Meyer, owned and trained by Clyde Moran of Hancock County, will battle head-to-head with Dial's Girl, owned by Albert Gaston of Wilmer, Ala.

Louis Smith, Oak Downs operator, said there still are five more berths open for Easter Sunday's two-division quarterhorse attraction. The distance will be 350 yards with a $500 entry fee, winner take all.

Owners who already have signed up to enter their top horses are Clyde Moran of Hancock County, Donice Thompson of Folsom, Charles Curtis and Louis Smith of Gulfport, Gerald Averett and Alvin Addison of Loranger and Milford Favre of Hancock County.

Leading jockey JoAnn Boatwright of Cantonment, Fla., won four races last Sunday to put her winning total for 1981 at 53.

But Leo Fricke of Picayune won five on the 18-race card—the longest of the year—and climbed into second place in the jockey standings. Fricke has 23 wins. In third place is Marty Comfort of Hancock County with 22.

Topping the trainer standings, as he did in 1980, is John Paul Amacker of Poplarville. Amacker has 17 victories. Tied with 11 each are Bill Harris of Picayune, Gerald Averett of Loranger and Richard Graham of Harrison County.

PRC to elect cheerleaders

Pearl River College will break tradition this coming year and elect football and basketball cheerleaders.

Ann Morris, cheerleader sponsor, announced this week that tryouts for PRC football cheerleaders is scheduled for Tuesday, April 7 at 3:30 p.m. in the Pearl River Coliseum. Basketball cheerleader tryouts are set for September.

"We have always had outstanding cheerleaders," said Morris, "however, because of Pearl River's increased activities for both football and basketball, school officials have decided to implement the two squad system."

Dr. Marvin R. White, president of PRC, said the new system should be more beneficial to the teams as well as the individuals serving as cheerleaders. "This year our cheerleaders have worked continually from July of last year."

According to Morris there are four places open on the football unit. Shannon Roberts, Columbia; Christine Edwards, Carriere; Beverly Sanford, Picayune and Rhonda Smith, Bay St. Louis will be returning sophomores.

Suzanne McSwain, Bogalusa and Terrie Harriel, Poplarville are sophomores and will not return next year, however all of the 1980 last year's squad will help conduct the April tryouts.

Cheerleaders from a senior college will judge the candidates according to rhythm, appearance, personality and learning ability. This year's cheerleaders will be on hand to teach the candidates cheers, in order for the participants to exhibit their sense of rhythm and ability to learn.

Each candidate is also responsible for doing a cheer which will display his or her ability. Morris said past cheerleading experience is helpful but not essential.

Morris pointed out that candidates not selected for the eight person football cheering squad are eligible to tryout for the basketball unit in September.

Individuals making the football cheerleading squad are also eligible to tryout for the basketball squad.

Champ's Girl, :39.52, Claudette's Delight, fourth, no time.

14) 350 yards, 77 Girl, :19.195, Carl Mason, owner; Thomas Malone, trainer; Kenny Ellis, jockey. Sam's Go Gal, :19.22, Give Me Some Room, :19.915, Miss Fender Gas, :20.73.

15) 3/8 mile, Ethanol, :40.41, Laura Rester, owner; George Rester, trainer; Leo Fricke, jockey. Tensas Hostess, second, no time.

16) 350 yards, Lucky Vain, :19.01, Earl Bankston, owner; George Lee, trainer; Leo Fricke, jockey. Moon Beam, :19.65, Little Royal Pacific, :19.94.

17) 3/8 mile, Me For More, first, no time recorded, Steve Roubion, owner and trainer; Melton Baham, jockey. Dr. Lee, second.

Hancock North Central dropped a 9-3 decision to Vancleave in the championship game of the Doug Thompson Invitational Baseball Tournament Saturday afternoon in Gulfport.

The Hawks reached the finals by dumping St. John, 6-1. In that game Brian Arcement blasted a triple and collected 3 RBIs to lead Hancock.

Don Necaise, Neal Ladner, and Brian Arcement were named to the all-tournament team.

Monday afternoon the Pass Christian Pirates squeezed by the Hawks, 3-2, after Hancock had tied the game with runs in the third and fourth.

Ricky Ladner connected for a double and Gerald Ladner drilled a solo home run for the Hawks in a losing cause.

Pass Christian's winning run scored on an error. "It's a shame to lose that way," commented Hawk coach Irvin Farve. "We played some good ball and can win some games and still have a respectable season."

The Hawks are 3-4 on the year and will visit East Central today at 7 p.m. for a District 8A baseball contest and will entertain Pearl River Central Saturday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. in the Kilt.

Bay High changed from a team with a losing record to one with a 5-4 mark by virtue of wins over Vancleave and Pass Christian this week.

In a ten inning affair Monday in Bay St. Louis, the Tigers pushed across the winning run on a throwing error. Bobby Richardson scored from third after earning a walk, reaching second on an error, and stealing third.

David Strong earned the win in relief of Scotty Adam. Strong also slugged a triple and drove in one run.

Mark Bradley, Hooty Adam, and Scotty Adam each had two RBIs.

The Tigers made it two in a row as they slipped past the visiting Pass Christian Pirates, 6-5, Tuesday.

Bay High built a 6-1 cushion before the Pirates scored four times in the fifth to make the game close.

The win went to Scotty Adam who struck out 10 batters and helped his own cause by bringing home two runs with two hits.

Friday night the Tigers will host cross town rivals, St. Stanislaus, in an important conference contest. Game time is 6 p.m. at Tiger Park.

Pass Christian ripped Pearl River Central, 15-1, in a high school baseball game at the Pirates' home field Saturday afternoon.

Randy Ladner earned the win, pitching all five innings of the short game.

A 20 hit Pass attack was led by Thomas Spencer's 4 for 4 performance that included a home run, a triple, and six RBIs. Ben Fields added a home run and 3 RBIs.

Hancock North Central fell victim to the Pirates Monday as Pass pushed across an unearned run in the bottom of the seventh inning to win by one, 3-2.

The win went to Jeff Ulrich as the Pirates improved their season mark to 3 wins and 2 losses.

The Pirates were edged 6-5 Tuesday as they traveled to Bay St. Louis to take on the Tigers.

Thomas Spencer was charged with the loss, giving up six runs in four innings of work.

Eldridge Dedeaux drove in two runs and Richard Dedeaux and Thomas Spencer had two hits each in a losing effort.

St. Stanislaus bombed off Irberville, 11-1, Tuesday in Bay St. Louis as Brian Logan pitched a four hitter to pick up his second win.

Third baseman Andrew Haas punched three doubles to lead the 11 hit bombardment. Joe Gex, Brad Lamey, and Bruce Cabell had two RBIs each and Haas, Shawn Henderson, and Steve Favre each had one run batted in.

Logan recorded seven strike outs and issued four base on balls.

Earlier in the week the Rocks traveled to Mobile, Ala. in a contest with McGill and came up on the short end of a 5-7 score.

Gus Alme was the losing pitcher as the Rock-A-Chaws outlast McGill 10-6 but 3 errors proved to be the difference.

Joe Gex hammered a home run and Bruce Cabell and Dennis Scardino had two hits each.

St. Stanislaus is 6-4 overall and undefeated in conference play, with an important conference contest slated for 6 p.m. Friday at Tiger Park with Bay High.

Nineteen high schools will send 128 tennis players to the Coast Invitational Tennis Tournament at Hiller Park Saturday beginning at 8 a.m. The top seed in boys singles is Steve Carter from Ocean Springs. David McDonnell, of St. Stanislaus is the second seed, having just beaten the third seed Tom Purser of Picayune on Tuesday.

Richard Sliman of Biloxi is the fourth seed. Vicky Purser of Picayune is the top seeded girl in singles, with Lori Laney of Pascagoula, number two. Kim Furman of Our Lady's Academy is third and Susanne Clark of Ocean Springs is fourth.

Moss Point's boys doubles team of Obie Atwell and Myron Seaton are the top seeds in boys doubles while Steve Olson and David Horman of Ocean Springs are second.

Morgan and Cawthorn of Pascagoula are seeded number three and Gulfport's Jack Robinson and Jerry Gentle round out the seeding in boys doubles.

Dana Favre and Kathleen Martin of Bay High are the top seeds in girls doubles while Dawn Grady and Susie Holmes of Long Beach right behind.

Lynette Beach and Pam Perry of Gulfport are seeded third and Linne Cabell and Ann Moran of Our Lady's Academy fourth.

In Mixed Doubles, Hoskins and Smith of Pascagoula are the top seeds with Ricky Woodfield and Terhi Rita of Long Beach second. Gulfport's mixed doubles team, Alan King and Stacey Myrick are third and Linda McCarthy and Ricky Ladner of Bay High are fourth.

Some of the other schools participating in the tournament are St. Martin, East Central, Stone, Notre Dame, Sacred Heart, Our Lady of Victory, and Coast Episcopal.

Each year the Invitational brings the best tennis players from all the schools together for a true test of tennis skills and endurance.

The first round will be decided by a pro-set, the second round by two out of three sets of no-ad tennis.

The semi-finals and the finals will be played in the normal manner of two out of three sets of tennis. A nine-point tie-breaker will be used at 8 all in the pro sets and 6 all in the regular sets.

PRC Girls lose 'header

It may have been the genesis of something good.

The Pearl River Junior College girls, in just their first year of softball, trailed 12-0, in the second game of their doubleheader here Friday afternoon.

Errors galore, both physical and mental, had cost them in a 20-2 loss in the opening game to Gulf Coast.

But catcher Taffy Snowden hit a grounder off the pitcher's hand for a RBI single with the bases loaded. Rene Dubose cracked a two-run hit and Nita Boudreaux followed with a sacrifice fly to right field to narrow the margin to 12-4.

Then the Pearl River girls delivered two perfect innings of defense, the outfielders filling the gaps and the infielders mowing down Gulf Coast runners.

The game ended in a 19-10 loss, but it seemed as if the Pearl River girls were beginning to peek past the corner.

"That's the way we look in practice," Tessie Seal, one of the players, said after seeing her team retire six straight batters.

"We're going to do better," catcher Taffy Snowden said prior to the four-run rally.

"You'll see."

The Pearl River girls are 0-4 on the season, having dropped a twinbill to Gulf Coast 21-1 and 12-8 in Perkinson on Tuesday. They will host Hinds on Tuesday afternoon.

Gwen Breland was the losing pitcher in the first game with Glenda Gardner and Faith Harrell accounting for the runs in the first and fourth innings respectively.

Lisa Essary was the losing pitcher in the first game, suffering through a nightmarish first inning in which 12 runners crossed the plate. A 13th runner touched home plate, but was ruled out on an appeal when she failed to touch second base.

Dubose rapped out four RBIs in the second game.

"When we make so many errors early, that gets the girls down," head coach Larry Stanford said. "I'm definitely pleased that after being down 12-0, we got together. The girls picked up their heads and played some decent softball."

After four games in which it seemed the team would buy the scorekeeper a pocket calculator, Pearl River, just maybe, can begin to look for better things.

Wildlife survivors depicted on stamps

Don't panic if you discover a great white shark in your mailbox this spring. It won't mean that "Jaws" has found a new home, but that the National Wildlife Federation has issued its 1981 conservation stamps.

This year's sheet of stamps depicts 36 different animal species, all of which are "wildlife survivors." From the leopard frog to the big brown bear, all these animals have special abilities and traits which help them survive in the wild.

NWF's stamps, familiar to millions of Americans since their first appearance in 1938, are frequently used to decorate letters and packages. In addition, they may be collected in stamp albums available from the Federation. Each album contains descriptions and biological data on the 36 species of mammals, birds, fish, insects, and plants depicted on the 1981 stamp sheets.

NWF, the nation's largest nonprofit conservation organization, began its stamp program 43 years ago during its third year of operation to raise the funds necessary for its survival. NWF's first president, Jay Norwood (Ding) Darling, painted the first 16 stamps himself. President Franklin D. Roosevelt became the first collector of conservation stamps when he received the brand new sheet of stamps at the White House on March 20, 1938.

Since then NWF has distributed more than seven billion stamps to wildlife enthusiasts and stamp collectors across the country. The colorful, educational stamps are reproduced in full color miniature from the paintings of such well-known wildlife artists as Chuck Ripper, Maynard Reece, Arthur Singer, and Dan Eckleberry.

Contributions for stamps are used to help fund NWF's conservation education program, which last year distributed over 1.4 million free books and pamphlets on environmental and wildlife subjects. Donations are also used to acquire and protect wildlife habitat.

Among the wildlife survivors pictured on the 1981 conservation stamps are:

—The great white shark. This meat-eater is the largest and most powerful of the predatory sharks, roaming both tropical temperate seas. This voracious eater is equipped with razor sharp, triangular-shaped teeth which are immediately replaced by new teeth when lost or broken. The great white may go through many complete sets of these formidable weapons during its lifetime.

—The redhead duck. Although it was once an abundant species, the redhead duck is now considered among the least common of all North American ducks. Decline of the redhead's number is attributed to habitat loss and excessive hunting practices.

This colorful waterfowl spends its summers in freshwater wetlands from Canada to the central and western U.S., and its winters in the saltwater bays of America, Mexico, and the West Indies.

—The eastern fox squirrel. This coarsely-furred mammal is one of the largest species of squirrels in North America,

SAW-WHET OWL

Those interested in receiving a sheet of the 1981 conservation stamps or the stamps album, which is available for $2.50, should write to the National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Mississippi official takes top national wildlife award

The National Wildlife Federation later this month will present its coveted "Connie" award for wildlife conservationist of the year to Richard Yancey, executive director of the Mississippi Department of Wildlife

Richard K. Yancey

Conservation in Jackson.

"One of the nation's top waterfowl experts, Yancey will receive the award for his courage and dedication to the principles of sound and professional wildlife management," despite significant obstacles and difficulties," said federation executive Thomas L. Kimball. "On behalf of the more than 4.6 million members and supporters of the National Wildlife Federation, I congratulate you on your selection as this nation's 1980 wildlife conservationist of the year," he said in a letter to Yancey informing him of his selection.

Yancey, who earned a master's degree in wildlife management from Louisiana State University, has some 32 years of experience in fish and wildlife management.

Currently, Yancey is vice-president of the 16-state Southeastern Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies, and chairman of the international treaties com-the Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission in 1980. Yancey will receive the award March 29 in Norfolk, Va., at the Federation's 45th annual meeting.

Former Secretary of the Interior Cecil D. Andrus has been named "Conservationist of the Year" for 1980. The former Idaho governor and cabinet officer heads a list of 13 individuals and organizations, including Yancey, named to receive "Connie" awards for achievement in the conservation field.

The list includes veteran TV newsmen Walter Cronkite, whose communications award was announced earlier; Rep. Edwin B. Forsythe (R-N.J.), named "Legislator of the Year"; and Sen. Robert T. Stafford (R-VT.), the new chairman of the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee.

Because he was scheduled to leave on an extended overseas assignment, Cronkite's award was presented last week in Washington, D.C. The other Connies will be presented at NWF's 45th Annual Meeting in Norfolk on March 29. The Connie is a statuette of a whooping crane, an endangered bird symbolizing the conservation cause.

Andrus won his "Conservationist of the Year" award, considered the most prestigious honor in its field, for his role in securing Congressional passage last December of the Alaska Lands Bill.

That law, placing 104 million of Alaska's 365 million acres under federal protection while allowing the development of timber, oil and other minerals "Proved for all time," said the NWF, "that the nation's land resources can be, with proper management, both protected and productive."

Cronkite won his conservation communications award, NWF said, because during the nearly 20 years he anchored the CBS Evening News, "no journalist in America contributed more to this country's understanding of its environmental problems."

Representative Forsythe was named "Legislator of the Year" for his leadership in gaining Congressional approval of the Fish and Wildlife Conservation Act of 1980, a law that extends the benefits of wildlife management to nongame species.

Senator Stafford was cited for his part in securing passage by the 96th Congress of the Superfund Act, providing $1.6 billion to clean up toxic waste dumps, the reauthorization of the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act, and for his work on clean air and water legislation. He won a Special Conservation Achievement Award.

The other Connie award winners are:

Organization of the Year—The American Fisheries Society, founded 110 years ago, has grown into an international organization of 8,000 fisheries and aquatic science professionals as well as lay and student members. The AFS has extended its activities beyond the realm of scientific fisheries conferences and publications to become deeply involved in all issues affecting the aquatic environment.

Resources Defense—Joseph L. Sax, professor of law at the University of Michigan, was principal author of the Michigan Environmental Protection Act, considered to be one of the strongest and most forward-looking pieces of conservation legislation in the country. He also helped pioneer the creation of a joint law and natural resources degree at the University of Michigan, and has established a legal externship program that sends high-quality students to work without cost for conservation organizations.

Wildlife Conservationist of the Year—Richard K. Yancey, executive director of the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation and one of the nation's top waterfowl experts, became convinced through his research that the mortality of ducks and geese resulting from lead poisoning could be drastically reduced through the use of steel shot. He was instrumental in instituting realistic waterfowl seasons and improving management techniques in the Mississippi Flyway and the entire U.S.

Conservation Educator of the Year—Since his appointment as director of the Virginia Nature Camp, Col. John Henry Reeves, Jr. has vastly improved the summer camp's educational programs. He has begun courses in archaeology, botany, conservation, ecology, geology, herpetology, ornithology, wildlife art, and wildlife management.

Distinguished Affiliate Service—The Wisconsin Wildlife Federation mounted an extensive "Keep Conservation Out of Politics" campaign after it learned that the governor of Wisconsin planned to ask for legislative authority empowering him to appoint the head of the state's Department of Natural Resources. The WWF saw the move as a threat to the active role that Wisconsin citizens have played in the management and conservation programs of the state DNR and mobilized 600 volunteers to help defeat the plan.

"Connie" Award

Special Conservation Achievement—Lucille F. Stickel, eminent research scientist, is administrator of the nation's leading wildlife research facility in Patuxent, Md. One of her important contributions as a pioneer in both research application and technique was in identifying the significance of pesticide residues in the animal brain.

Special Conservation Achievement—Keith Wright, president of Oklahoma's Kiamichi Conservation Society, became involved in 1979 in a still-unresolved battle to negotiate with the Weyerhaeuser Company regarding the timber company's wildlife and water quality policies on its holdings in Oklahoma and Arkansas. His efforts in working with forestry experts, economists, and local, state, and national conservation leaders helped bring about an agreement by Weyerhaeuser to follow suggested wildlife policies and management guidelines.

Special Conservation Achievement—Richard W. Riley, Governor of South Carolina, has appointed respected conservationists and other sportsmen to critical state boards, councils, commissions, and committees. Although he has stated his objections to the Army Corps of Engineers Richard B. Russell project on the Savannah River, he has implemented the Russell Task Force to ensure that if the project is completed, damage to the environment will be minimal. He has also helped secure from Congress a sensible and comprehensive national policy for the handling and disposal of low and high-level nuclear wastes.

HEARINGS SET Mississippi sportsmen will have an opportunity to make recommendations to the Department of Wildlife Conservation on such subjects as season dates and bag limits for the upcoming hunting seasons.

"Members of the agency's technical staff in Jackson, along with field personnel, will conduct three public hearings throughout the state in May to hear from hunters and fishermen about fall and winter hunting seasons," a department spokesman reported recently.

"Suggestions made at the public hearings, along with recommendations from the biological staff, will be presented to a five-member Commission on Wildlife Conservation when it meets later this spring to set season dates and bag limits," the spokesman explained.

"All public hearing comments and suggestions will be tape recorded and then transcribed for use by commission members," the spokesman noted.

Hearings scheduled this year include: Tupelo on May 5 at the Community Center at the Fairgrounds, Jackson; May 6 in the second floor assembly room at Woolfolk State Office Building, and become an addition to the 3,100-acre Malmalson Wildlife Management Area. The property, which is part of the widely known McIntyre Scatters, is one of the most popular waterfowl hunting areas in Mississippi," the spokesman explained.

"This is the second effort by the Wildlife Heritage Committee to acquire all of the lands in the scatters, do that they can become part of the Malmalson Wildlife Area," commented Committee Chairman Tommy Gollott of Biloxi.

"In the 1978 the Committee purchased 808 acres in the Scatters for hunting and fishing," he added.

In a letter to Kennedy, Gollott commended him for his generous donation to conservation, and his desire to see this lands preserved and protected for future outdoor recreational use.

"The sportsmen of Mississippi, both now and in the future, can be assured they will have a prime hunting and fishing area to enjoy," he stated.

"Created by the State Legislature in 1974, the Wildlife Heritage Committee acquires land for public hunting, fishing and related outdoor activities," Gollott explained.

Members of the Committee include: Gollott, Rep. Emmett Owens of Jackson, vice-chairman; Rep. Archie Cates of Mantachie; Rep. Larry Dubaz Jr. of Biloxi; Sen.

Charles Ray Nix of Batesville; Sen. Algie Davis of Meridian; Dr. Edmund Keiser of Oxford; Allen Bruton of Scooba; Luther C. Gollott of Biloxi; and Benny Herring of Jackson.

SSC, OLA to present comic strip drama

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre will present the SSC-OLA Drama Club production of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" at the Boardman Avenue Playhouse in Bay St. Louis.

The musical comedy will be presented Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 8:15 p.m.; and Saturday at 2 p.m. and 8:15 p.m.

The play is based on Charles Schulz's "Peanuts" comic strip and the story, music and lyrics are written by Clark Gesper.

Two casts have been assembled for the five presentations. In one cast the student performers are Tommy Zanca (Charlie Brown), Virginia MacMillan (Lucy), Justin Martzell (Linus), Stacie Glindmeyer (Patty) and Robert Zanca (Schroeder).

The other cast includes Skip Horne (Charlie Brown), Mitz Plessala (Lucy), Andy Boudreaux (Linus), Carie Comeaux (Patty) and David Zoller (Schroeder).

The play is directed by Dan Griffin, chairman of the St. Stanislaus drama department.

The public is invited to attend. Tickets may be purchased in advance at St. Stanislaus.

ST. STANISLAUS student Skip Horne, right, and Virginia MacMillan of Our Lady's Academy prepare for their roles in the musical comedy "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown" to be presented this weekend at the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre on Boardman Avenue. Horne plays the role of Charlie Brown while MacMillan acts out the part of Lucy. (SSC Photo)

Girl's chorus to perform at Bay Methodist church

The Stone High School Girls Chorus will be featured in concert Sunday at Valena C. Jones Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis at 3 p.m.

"This group is one of the most outstanding high school choral groups in the state. The chorus has received superior ratings in their district competitions consistently," a church spokesman reports.

They are division winners in the Opryland Music Festival as well as Overall Grand Champions Award recipients — out-ranking all other choral groups from across the U.S. participating in the festival," the spokesman says.

"Last year, Stone participated in the Six Flags Over Texas Festival and again were rated superior by all judges. For three years, the Stone girls have received Sweepstakes Trophies for best choir at the Gulf Coast Choral Festival hosted by the Long Beach Concert Association," the spokesman explains.

"Within this 38 voice group is a small ensemble which also performs named the Stone Sextet. The sextet is an award winning group which has received honors from both district and state competitions. Like her 'big sister' counterpart, the sextet has won sweepstakes trophies," the spokesman noted.

"The choir and ensemble will present an afternoon of sacred and secular music. The group will perform serious choral literature such as Mozart's 'Lacrymosa,' Lotti's 'Miserere Mei,' but will include some spirituals, gospels, and folk tunes," the spokesman explains.

Jerlene Jones, a native Gulfportian, is director of the chorus. Monica Baxter will serve as accompanist.

Genealogical Workshop set Saturday in Mobile

Are you interested in learning more about your ancestors?

If so, you should know about the Genealogical Workshop being conducted in Mobile on March 28.

The workshop will be sponsored by the Mobile Genealogical Society.

Speaker will be Richard S. Lackey, a nationally known lecturer and author of genealogical books and articles," a group spokesman said recently.

"He will present three lectures covering family research methods, early Alabama and Mississippi families and genealogical source material," the spokesman reported.

"After the lectures, Lackey and Winston De Ville, another nationally known genealogist, will conduct a general discussion, and answer questions about family research," the spokesman noted.

"The workshop will be at Holiday Inn near I-65 and Airport Boulevard in Mobile. Doors will open for registration at 8 a.m. and the first lecture will begin at 9 a.m.," the spokesman stated.

"Admission for the three lectures and the discussion is $10," the spokesman added. For more information call Sarah Scott, president of the Mobile Genealogical Society at 205-432-4735 or Glen Johnson, program chairman, at 205-343-7185.

News Brief

HEALTH ASPECTS

The orthodontist's primary goal is to improve oral health. Crooked and crowded teeth are hard to maintain and clean. Poorly maintained teeth can cause tooth decay, eventual tooth loss and gum disease. Protruding teeth are more susceptible to accidental chipping and other forms of dental injury. Sometimes, the increased cost of dental care resulting from an untreated malocclusion far exceeds the cost of orthodontic care. At the same time, improving oral health through orthodontics often improves appearance. Naturally, you feel better when you look better, and a pleasing appearance is a vital asset to one's self-confidence and self-esteem. Often, a person's self-consciousness disappears as orthodontic treatment brings teeth, lips and face into proper position.

THE TALISMAN

The television dramatization of Sir Walter Scott's medieval tale of adventure, chivalry and mystery, 'The Talisman,' is airing in eight half-hour episodes on 'Once Upon a Classic' at 1 p.m., Saturdays, on the Mississippi Educational Television Network.

'The Talisman' relates the adventures of Sir Kenneth, the royal prince of Scotland, when he was a disguised knight in the Holy Land under the rule of Richard the Lion-Hearted. The tale tells of his encounters with Saladin, the king's noble enemy, who ironically saves Richard's life.

Gypsy fortune teller helped find husband

By S. GRADY THIGPEN

Many people, particularly country people, will still remember a facet of country life 70 and more years ago when gypsy caravans were well known throughout rural America.

When I was a boy gypsies, unannounced and unexpected, wandered around over the rural country side in horse drawn covered wagons, followed by a string of trading horses and a bunch of capable, unfriendly watch dogs.

Once widely known in rural America, they gradually passed on into history after World War I, and the increasingly wide usage of the automobile.

The heyday of the gypsies was from the Civil War on up to the 1920's. Several families, each including usually a half dozen small children, travelled in caravans along rural roads, more or less living off the country they passed through.

No one seems to know where the gypsies came from. The dictionary defines a gypsy as a member of a wandering, dark haired, dark skinned caucasian people believed to have migrated to Europe from India around the 15th Century and known throughout the world as fortune tellers, musicians and traders.

Also they were called Romans. Some early gypsies were believed to be of Egyptian origin.

I remember, when I was a boy, 75 to 80 years ago living out in rural Jasper county, seeing the gypsies come through our area several times.

They were in wagons with canvas canopies, reminiscent of pioneer days with their household equipment such as buckets tubs and the like hung on the outside, making a clatter as they moved down the road.

They were not welcome, but neither were they shunned, for their coming created an air of mild excitement and a break in the monotony of rural life.

The gypsies camped near communities that were more thickly settled. They selected as their camping place an easily accessible spot near a good spring of water or a running stream and a place with plenty good sized trees where it would be cooler in summer weather.

As soon as the location of a gypsy camp was known, there would be visiting from the surrounding area.

From previous visits, the young ladies — unmarried ones — knew that the gypsy women told fortunes. Just about all the young women wanted their fortunes told.

For a price, the gypsy would tell them pretty much what they wished for, when they'd get married, what their husbands would look like, etc.

The cost for getting their fortunes told was low by standards of that day. If the young lady did not have the small amount wanted, the fortune tellers would take produce from the farm in lieu of cash.

I remember hearing it told when I was probably about 10 years old of how badly a neighbor's girl, approaching the time when she'd be called an old maid, wanted her fortune told.

She had no money so she carried a dozen eggs which the fortune teller took as her pay. This young woman was told that she'd marry a handsome man with a good lot of this world's goods before the year was out.

Since her fate, as told by the fortune teller, was so optimistic and so much what she wanted, she believed with her whole heart that her fortune would be as told by the gypsy woman.

This young woman was so elated at the good news of her near future she told all the other girls of her good fortune to be.

As the year passed slowly by, as time always does, when weighted by keen anticipation, this young lady began to doubt and then to worry about the good fortune she expected.

Just before the year was up, seemingly, miraculously, a young man from a community some 20 miles away came to visit some near relatives in the community.

It was soon known by all, the young woman especially, that he was single.

To make a long story short, the young man married the girl just about as the fortune teller foretold.

The next time the gypsies came through, every young unmarried woman in the community went to see the gypsy fortune tellers to see if she would have such good luck.

The gypsy men were all expert horse traders. I knew several men who traded horses with gypsies. In every case the gypsy got the best of the deal.

My father prided himself on being a good horse trader. He had a bay mare that he did not think much of.

He rode her to the gypsy camp to see what kind of trade he could get. When he came back home he had a beautiful red and white good sized calico horse with shiny slick coat.

He was very proud of his trade, saying that he got this fine looking horse for his little thought of mare and only $35 to boot. He rode the pretty horse around the community to show it off.

In making the trade, the gypsies had plowed the horse a few rounds with a light plow to show that it was a good plow animal. After a few days my father put the plow harness on the pretty horse and went into the vegetable garden to do some plowing.

The horse did fine for a few rounds.

As he turned round to start on another round trip across the garden, the horse began balking and backing up almost backing over my father. It kept going backwards until he backed into the garden fence and knocked a whole panel down.

I've never before or since seen a man more disgusted than was my father. He put a saddle on the horse and started for the gypsy camp. When he got there they were gone.

A day or so later my father decided to try the horse to the wagon, working with another dependable animal. The team did alright until they started up a hill, when he again began backing up.

As in the case before, he could not stop him and the horse backed the wagon into a ditch and almost threw the other horse down.

The gypsies generally were thought to be thieves. On their arrival farmers would watch their property closely. The gypsies had no worry about the security of their own property from theft, as they always had several vicious dogs all trained to repel strangers, day or night.

The gypsies always seem to have money, to buy food for their families when they could not get it any other way. They would buy any kind of horses for a price — always a low price.

They were expert at taking poor horses, nondescript animals, in fact, just about anything in the way of a horse, if they could buy it cheap enough.

They would then feed and curry and trim up the low cost animals to make them look good and then sell them at maybe 10 or 15 times what they paid for them.

The gypsy women dressed in bright, multicolored clothes and wore strings of beads. They carried with them cloth, cheap jewelry and trinkets of various kinds to trade or sell to farm women. They were as sharp in their trading as were the men. And as my mother said, "They always got the best of the deal."

In their trading they spoke English, but in talking among themselves they talked in some foreign language.

Occasionally, whether by pre-arrangement or by luck, two or even three or more of these caravans would meet up and gather at some convenient space and spend days together.

With the coming of the automobile the gypsies began to use them as their way of travel. But his changed their habits, and limited their sources of income as they had no horses to trade, and country women could go to town more easily and were not easily taken in by the gypsy women.

The F-16 Fighting Falcon, the newest addition to the U.S. Air Force's array of fighter aircraft, will be on display at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi Sunday when the base opens its gates to the public for its 40th Anniversary Open House.

The public is invited to attend the open house with gates to the base to be opened to all at 11:30 a.m. and the day's activities scheduled to end at 5 p.m.

A performance by the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds at 3 p.m. will highlight the day's festivities.

Confirmation that the F-16 will be at Keesler means that during the open house, visitors to the base will be able to take a close look at the Air Force's three newest tactical combat aircraft, the F-16, F-15, and A-10.

A lightweight, single seat, single engine fighter, the F-16 is designed to perform both air superiority and air-to-ground combat missions.

Having a top speed greater than Mach 2, and a thrust to weight ratio of greater than one-to-one, the Fighting Falcon can be armed with a variety of external munitions augmenting its internal 20 mm cannon. F-15 EAGLE

The F-15 Eagle, the latest air superiority fighter of the Tactical Air Command, will make its first appearance at Keesler Sunday.

The fighter, capable of speeds in excess of Mach 2.5, will be on static display along with other aircraft from the Navy, Army and Coast Guard as well.

The F-15 was developed for its specific role because air superiority has long been recognized as the point of most concern in all tactical air operations.

The success of all other missions such as interdiction of supply lines or support of ground forces, depends upon attaining and maintaining control of the air and eliminating interference by opposing air forces.

While the U.S. Air Force has maintained an edge in air-to-air combat capabilities over the past decades, the current first line fighter, the F-4, was designed 20 years ago.

However, since the early 1960s, the Soviets have steadily improved their air-to-air capability with a new family of high performance fighters.

The F-15 is a response to this threat. Based on advanced technology, the Eagle is the first U.S. fighter whose engines produce thrust greater than the weight of the loaded aircraft.

Also, an advanced wing design enables the Eagle to turn very tightly without losing airspeed, while at the same time allowing top speeds two and one half times faster than sound.

An indication of the plane's performance is shown by the world records it has won. Three Air Force officers flying F-15s broke eight world time-to-climb records Feb. 1, 1975, bettering the records to 3,000, 6,000, 9,000, 12,000, 15,000, 20,000, 25,000 and 30,000 meters.

The records for the five lower altitudes were previously held by the U.S. Navy's F-4 since 1962, and the records for the three higher altitudes were held by the Soviet MIG-25 Foxbat fighter since June, 1973.

Weapons and electronics systems aboard the F-15 make it a match for any adversary, current or projected.

THUNDERBOLT II

The Air Force's answer to enemy armor is the A-10 Thunderbolt II. Built by Fairchild Republic, the A-10 was specifically designed to provide close air support to ground forces. The first A-10s entered the Air Force inventory in 1976.

Powered by two General Electric jet engines, the highly maneuverable aircraft has the capability to fly to a target area and loiter, remain on the scene for extended periods of time.

This enables ground forces to have air support available on a continuing basis, rather than having to call in support and watch the aircraft leave the area to refuel and rearm just when their weapons might be needed again.

The A-10 is not an extremely fast aircraft by today's standards, but what it lacks in speed, it makes up for with the punch it carries.

Protruding from the nose is a 7-barrel 30 mm cannon that can deliver up to 4,200 rounds per minute on an enemy tank with awesome results.

Wing and fuselage pylons can carry a variety of sophisticated weapons.

Social workers honored at Jackson annual event

An annual banquet of the Mississippi Chapter-National Association of Social Workers was conducted recently in Jackson.

"The banquet kicked off 'Social Work Month' celebrations and was the last feature of an all-day meeting entitled 'Working With The American Family,'" reports Marjorie Music of Bay St. Louis.

"Susan Reece from the national office was main speaker giving a synopsis of the American family, government responsibility and the changes proposed for the Reagan Administration," Music says.

"With the lowest per capita income in the nation, Mississippi has the most to lose with the proposed budget cut backs. With every one dollar sent to Washington Mississippi gets back $1.82, most of which goes to social assistance programs," stated Reece.

Reece reported aid to dependent children will be cut eight percent, food stamps will decrease by 3 percent, WIC by thirty percent as well as Medicaid, Mental Programs, Legal Services, Title XX, Foster Care, Adoption, and Aging Programs all suffering a tremendous gap in services.

Annual awards were given at this event going to the 'most contributed' social worker of the year in Mississippi as well as to citizens of the year awards," Music says.

"Rims Barber, awarded 'Citizen of the Year' by the chapter, has been an outspoken advocate for the poor, the aged and the children of Mississippi," Music reports. His broad knowledge of federal policy and procedure in the human services field has proved invaluable to the Mississippi Legislature, the Department of Public Welfare and other programs serving these groups," she notes.

He has been a volunteer with Delta Ministry, on the advisory board for the Graduate School of Social Work and has actively supported Medicaid, Youth Court, Handicapped Children's Education and a multitude of other human services.

"Dr. Charles Dwayne Burgess of Holcomb was awarded the other public citizen of the year," Music says.

Burgess has just recently moved to his present employment at Brice State Hospital.

OPPOSITES—The real Carroll O'Connor is a far cry from the narrow-minded Archie Bunker he plays in the long-running comedy series "All in the Family." O'Connor shares some of his views with Bill Moyers on "Bill Moyers' Journal" at 2 p.m., Sunday, March 29, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

RACING GAME

Three new episodes of "The Racing Game" will be presented on "Mystery!" at 9 p.m., Tuesdays, beginning March 31, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

In its premiere season, "Mystery!" introduced "The Racing Game's" Sid Halley. As a jockey, Sid proved to be a winner—until his racing career was ended in a crippling fall. In order to overcome the injury that left his left hand mangled and useless, Sid was fitted with a potentially bone-crushing mechanical hand. And with the aid and encouragement of karate expert Chico Barnes, he was back on the tracks with a new career—as a private investigator.

CRITICISM HEYDEY
UNFAIR

Some of Mississippi's newspapers have run almost daily accounts recently pointing to a suggested dastardly impact on Mississippi from President Reagan's moves to achieve a balanced federal budget as soon as possible.

Few headlines or articles have dealt enough in the spirit of editorial balance as to why this Administration has chosen to perform economic surgery on this ailing two century old patient.

It is like flabbergasting your friends with all the unpleasant, lurid descriptions of surgery or medication without enlightening them as to why such treatment was necessary in the first place.

Mississippi and the nation both are undergoing painful withdrawal symptoms because we as a state have become addicted to the federal dollar that has flowed into our pet projects at a greater rate than our tax dollars have flowed to Washington — a fact that is not too admired by some representatives of other states in the national Congress who have come to resent Mississippi's getting more than it gives.

Much has been said about this state being the poorest state in per capita income. This situation will never amend itself as long as we retain a state mood of milking down the federal government for every dollar we can get. It will amend itself when we put on the hustle and generate more productivity geared to our national products.

In the meantime, if we continue to poor-mouth each austerity move much harm can be done toward the seemingly dedicated efforts of the Administration and Congress to look fiscal responsibility squarely in the eye and honestly try to turn an ailing land of opportunity around.

And to be as honest and fair as possible it would behoove each analytical writer to explore the diverse benefits to all Americans, poor, rich, and in between, to have a productive economy, a balanced national budget, a strengthened dollar in international trade, and a lessening of the ravages of inflation on the income of each citizen.

You can't lay the blame for the current dilemma totally on any one successive President since Franklin Roosevelt cranked off his New Deal in the thirties which has gathered snow and momentum from many sources ever since. The growth of federal government certainly has not been all bad, and many of its assistance programs are deserved. But a nation cannot give more than it's got without bankrupting itself, and the United States is hooked to the core now.

We have no choice anymore — if we are to preserve the best example of a governmental system which favors the generation of both personal and public wealth and freedom.

Let's lay off our president as long as he's performing essential surgery — even though we feel it in our own extremities. And let's get on with productivity wherein lies the secret of American success — past, present and future!

DAIRYMEN ACCEPT CUT
Most established Mississippi dairymen can be counted on to accept the new thinner line on dairy price supports called for by Congress, according to Gene Pickering, Laurel, Mississippi dairyman and chairman of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation's state dairy advisory committee.

But such philosophical support of going along with the President's plan for economic recovery in this nation is not without conditions that loom large in the minds of state dairymen. They don't want to be singled out to take cuts in federal programs aimed at stabilizing their market without budgetary cutbacks being shared "across the board" in the national economy.

Pickering feels that most Mississippi dairymen share his view that the time has come for everybody to hitch up their belts a bit to square expenditures with national income to get the national economy back on the right track. He believes that Mississippi dairymen will not be penalized as badly as those operating dairies outside the southeastern section of the nation where there is more dependence on the cheese, butter and powdered milk markets. Most southeastern dairymen produce for the fluid milk market.

Hugh Arant, president of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation and a board member of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said the national farm organization is on record supporting President Reagan's four-point program for economic recovery, and the Farm Bureau's national dairy advisory committee and the national farm policy body favor support for Senate Bill 509 which eliminated the April 1 dairy price support adjustment.

The programmed omission of the support adjustment means that the theoretical base price will not increase 88 cents. It does not necessarily mean that dairy prices to farmers will go down from current levels since the effective parity price has been about 74.9 percent anyway — a difference of only five percentage points.

Arant said it is felt that most established dairymen will, as in years past, make adjustments to take the new ruling in stride. New and marginal dairy farmers are more likely to suffer some economic consequences.

The Ruleville farmer said the federation's endorsement of the President's economic recovery program includes support for: (1) a budget reform plan to cut the rate of growth in federal spending; (2) a series of proposals to reduce personal income tax rates by ten percent a year over three years and the creation of jobs by accelerating depreciation for business investments in plants and equipment; (3) a far-reaching program of regulatory relief; and (4) in cooperation with the Federal Reserve board, a new commitment to a monetary policy that will restore a stable currency and healthy financial market.

"Farmers are very sensitive now," he said, "over being singled out as in the grain embargo against the Russians imposed over a year ago. While it is true that the embargo, inefficient as it was, has done some harm to the Russian economy, such use of commodities as weapons in international affairs has been largely at the expense of American farmers."

"We would not have opposed the embargo even when it was imposed," Arant said, "if the action had been across the board involving all American business in exports done abroad. But we were singled out and it hurt us. We still are calling for President Reagan to honor his campaign pledge and put an end to the embargo."

The farm group has told Congress and the President that economic sanctions are no substitute for military strength.

WEATHER REPORT

MID-MARCH TO MID-APRIL WEATHER OUTLOOK

Near normal temperatures will characterize Mississippi's weather for the next 30 days, according to the National Weather Service outlook distributed by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

The northern half of the state will receive above normal rainfall, but the southern half will receive less rain than usual, say agrometeorologists at the Mid-South Farm Weather Service in Stoneville who prepare the forecasts.

Temperatures are now in their rapid spring rise, say weather experts. Average high temperatures in the north rise from the low to mid 60s on March 15 to the low to mid 70s on April 15. South Mississippi sees average highs move from the high 60s to near 80. Low temperatures across the state climb from the low to mid 40s to the low to mid 50s. Most of the state gets 4.5 to 5.0 inches of rainfall this time of year.

Rainfall is less frequent than it is during the winter, say agrometeorologists, but spring rains can be heavy and extreme. Farmers in north Mississippi may have several periods of intense rainfall which could leave fields unworkable for several days. Most farms in south Mississippi will receive adequate rainfall.

No strong pattern of warm or cold fronts should affect weather in the coming weeks, but producers should remember that weather this time of year is often variable, say weather experts. Rising temperatures should benefit corn planting, poultry management and pasture growth.

BRIEF HISTORY

Origins of today's orthodontics extend back to the dental practices of ancient times. References to correcting irregularities of the teeth can be found in the medical writings of ancient Rome and Greece. However, it wasn't until about 1830 that a French dentist named Lefoulon began to call his work with crooked teeth "orthodontie." About the time of the Civil War, appliances used to move teeth were becoming more refined, but worked simply on individual teeth...there was no attempt to treat the dental arch as a unit. It wasn't until the 1880's that a system for classifying cases and terminology for diagnosing them was developed by Dr. Edward Angle. Dr. Angle is generally considered the father of modern orthodontics. In 1899 he founded a school in St. Louis, Missouri to teach orthodontics. A few years later Angle and others founded The American Society of Orthodontists, which later became known as The American Association of Orthodontists. By the mid-1920's major colleges and universities throughout the country offered advanced training in orthodontics.

Book offers breathing tips to patients

Exercise your muscles! Practice pursed-lip breathing and learn how to cough!

These are just a few of hundreds of suggestions in 'Help Yourself to Better Breathing,' a new booklet published by the American Lung Association especially for persons with emphysema and chronic bronchitis.

"This large-size, 24-page booklet contains excellent 'how-to' hints and is illustrated by famous artist Roy Doty. Lung patients will find interesting the first person stories of how others have learned to cope with breathing difficulties," says Mississippi Lung Association Executive Director Judson Allred Jr.

"There are specific directions on how to clear breathing passages of mucus. Exercises for postural drainage and building stamina are illustrated. Breathing aids such as nebulizers, respirators, oxygen, humidifiers and vaporizers are described," Allred explains.

'Help Your Medicines' chapter describes various medicines and includes spaces within the booklet to write individual directions for taking each medicine. Another section deals with correct diet and advice to avoid hazards of smoking, air pollution, weather extremes and infections," the executive director reports.

"Another chapter, 'Keep Living Your Life' can help lung patients with chronic bronchitis and emphysema lead full, enjoyable lives despite their illness," Allred notes.

'Help Yourself to Better Breathing' is available, free of charge from the Mississippi Lung Association, P. O. Box 9865, Jackson, Miss. 39206.

FEBRUARY GRANTS

The University of Mississippi was awarded more than $167,000 from public and private agencies in support of research and education activities during February.

"Largest of the February grants was $47,983 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare-Public Health Service to the medicinal chemistry department. Dr. W. Franklin Gilmore, professor of medicinal chemistry, is director of the project, 'Novel a-Amino Sulfonylides Amino Acid Antimetabolites,' a university spokesman notes.

"The Department of Health, Education and Welfare-Public Health Service also granted $24,000 to the health care administration department for 'National Research Service Award,' directed by Dr. Mickey S. Smith, department chairman," the spokesman adds.

Glenn to highlight Jackson dinner event

U.S. Sen. John Glenn of Ohio will be featured speaker at the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner, sponsored by the Democratic Party of Mississippi, Dinner Chairman Jimmy Hood of Houston recently reported.

The dinner will be at 7 p.m. April 3, at the Ramada Inn Coliseum in Jackson. Tickets are available from the State Democratic Headquarters by calling 969-2913.

"We are very pleased that Glenn has accepted our invitation," Hood said.

"He is rapidly emerging as one of the leaders of our party and his record in the Senate indicates he will be an interesting speaker for our dinner," Hood noted.

Hood said the dinner will honor Democratic members of the Mississippi Legislature.

"Glenn was reelected to his second six-year term last year."

ALEC GUINNESS

"Small, pudgy and at best middle-aged, he was by appearance one of London's meek who do not inherit the earth." "He" is master spy George Smiley as novelist John Le Carre describes him in "Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy" and as Sir Alec Guinness portrays him in the TV adaptation of the best-selling novel. The six episodes will be rebroadcast on Mississippi ETV at 7 p.m., Sundays, beginning March 29. They were first seen on ETV last fall.

and his election came by the largest margin in Ohio history for a statewide election," Hood reported.

Glenn gained national prominence in 1962 as the first American astronaut to venture in space, orbiting the earth three times.

Between his tenure in the space program and his service in the Senate, Glenn served as International president of Royal Crown International, developing overseas markets for the company.

He served 23 years in the U.S. Marine Corps.

As senator, Glenn is a member of the Foreign Relations and Governmental Affairs Committees and the Special Committee on Aging.

He is the ranking democrat on the Subcommittee on Energy and Nuclear Proliferation and the East Asian and Pacific Affairs Subcommittee.

In his committee roles, Glenn was active in the discussions on the SALT II treaty and authored the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Act. He has also worked for federal anti-racism legislation.

Glenn is a supporter of development of alternative energy sources and increased funding for research in those fields.

In 1980 he campaigned for a strong national defense, supporting the B1 bomber and neutron bomb development.

JUST EXPERIMENTING—Firefighter Arthur Farve of the Bay St. Louis Fire Department puts out an experimental gasoline fire set at the station to test a new type of foam fire extinguisher. Chief Andrew Lizana said the department is considering adding this type of chemical extinguisher to its arsenal of fire fighting equipment. The chief said two other chemicals have been tested recently and the above foam showed best results. Lizana said the chemical is manufactured by Chem Lab American Laboratories and is used to smother all types of oil base fires. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

Board of Health hikes records fee

The Mississippi State Board of Health has approved a revised fee schedule for copies of vital records, effective April 1.

The Vital Records Unit of the State Board of Health houses all birth, death, marriage, and divorce records filed since 1912. The estimated records total is near eight million, and numbers increase about 100,000 each year. Under the law, the State Registrar is responsible for the safekeeping of the original certificates. Statistical reports and indexes which enable vital records staff to locate any certificate on file are prepared from the originals.

Mississippi is rare among the states in that no state funds are used to support the operation. Vital records functions are self-supporting. Since operation costs have increased, the state registrar requested and gained approval from the State Board of Health to increase fees to continue meeting vital records needs in a cost-efficient, solvent way.

Under the revised schedule; short form certified birth certificates will cost $5. Certified full copies within the first year of birth will be $5, with certified full copies after one year, $10. Certified death certificates will also cost $5, and additional copies ordered at the same time will be $1.

The fee for correction by affidavit will be $10, and corrections by court order will cost $15.

Charges for delayed certificates and adoption certificates will be $15 each. The cost for certified copies of marriage records will be $5. Special search (genealogy) charges will be $20 per hour, $10 minimum, plus $1 per copy.

State Registrar Dr. David Lohrisch explained the need for the revised fee schedule: "Vital Records employs some 60 people with a payroll of over $700,000; projected salary increases would cost over $50,000 per year."

Extra funds which resulted from a 1979 increase, the first since 1966, enabled the Vital Records Unit to begin an extensive conversion to a computer-based system. The conversion has already provided personnel savings and improved services.

"Our computer indexes are far from complete and accurate," Dr. Lohrisch said. "This shortcoming necessitates the keypunching of the indexes from the 3.5 million birth certificates already on file. This project is estimated to take two or three years."

"Furthermore, the deteriorating physical condition of the records demands that we take steps to minimize the handling of these records," he said.

"The ever-present possibility of a fire in the vault and its disastrous consequences require that a back-up system be developed."

"We have selected the microfiche process to allow us to keep record handling at a minimum and also provide a secure back-up. We estimate this process to take two years," he said.

Historic preservation programs in jeopardy

Proposed budget cuts by President Ronald Reagan will eliminate federal participation in historic preservation programs in Mississippi and nationwide, says Robert J. Bailey, deputy state historic preservation officer for Mississippi and director of the historic preservation division, Department of Archives and History.

Bailey recently attended an annual meeting of the National Conference of State Historic Preservation Officers in Washington, D.C. and he reports the Reagan administration has already rescinded $8 million earmarked for historic preservation from this year's national budget.

Without an active grassroots effort on the part of preservationists in this state, Bailey warns, there will be little preservation activity next year, in Mississippi and elsewhere.

Bailey says recommendations are being formulated to stop funding of the national historic preservation program.

If this is accomplished, reports Bailey, major preservation action will cease, including the state's ability to nominate properties to the National Register of Historic Places, to review federal projects to insure the protection of historic properties and to provide direct grant assistance to owners of historic properties.

The conference recognizes, Bailey notes, the necessity for across-the-board cuts in funding.

He points out, however, the historic preservation federal-state liaison program is perhaps the most cost-effective and least expensive program within the entire federal government.

"In Mississippi, for example, $1,673,565 in federal grants-in-aid and approximately $4,000 in Department of Archives and History operational costs for certification of historic buildings (under the Tax Reform Act of 1976) has generated almost $30,000,000 in total construction costs for historic structures, most of which serve functional purposes."

"This sum is even more staggering in light of the fact that tax cut certification has been a facet of the national historic preservation program for only five of the program's 15 years in operation," he reports.

Bailey reiterated benefits of the historic preservation program both economic and cultural which include:

—The program is not inflationary;

—It stimulates economic growth;

—It is labor intensive;

—It conserves natural resources and energy;

—It creates new tax dollars;

—It is a keystone of the neighborhood revitalization.

For these reasons, Bailey believes the administration's proposed cuts for historic preservation are not bad cuts, but they are "misinformed" cuts.

"If President Reagan and Congress were aware that federal dollars for historic preservation generate economic prosperity at the state and local level and return to the federal government far more than it gives, the cuts would probably never have been recommended," he says.

"Further, the national historic preservation program is perfectly in keeping with the new administration's political and economic philosophy," Bailey adds.

Bailey encourages all those interested in the preservation of Mississippi's historic properties specifically and the state's cultural heritage, to immediately write their congressmen and senators.

STUDENTS TO BE HONORED

Outstanding University of Mississippi students will be recognized for academic achievement Thursday, April 9, when the University observes its annual Honors Day celebration.

Gov. William Winter will be the featured speaker at the 10:30 a.m. convocation in Fulton Chapel. Winter has undergraduate and law degrees from Ole Miss, and is former president of the Ole Miss Alumni Association.

"A highlight in the event is presentation of the university's highest academic awards, Taylor Medals and Taylor Citations, to undergraduate students who have demonstrated exceptional scholarship in one field of study combined with superior academic work in all subjects."

Bell offers new business system

Beginning this month, South Central Bell is offering Mississippi business customers with as few as five lines and 11 telephones the "Horizon VS" system, a system made possible by micro-processors.

"The newest and smallest member of South Central Bell's Horizon system product line, the Horizon VS allows small business owners to more efficiently manage their communications systems to suit their particular needs," a Bell spokesman says.

"A popular feature in larger communications systems—a customer access unit—is also available with the Horizon VS system. It allows customers to add, change, rearrange or delete specific calling information simply by pressing a few buttons," the spokesman notes.

"Existing telephones can be reassigned features without wiring changes. By making these kinds of changes, using the customer access unit, customers can also avoid the expense and inconvenience of service calls," the spokesman explains.

"The Horizon VS also helps managers and owners of small businesses push their business's level of productivity to the maximum," the spokesman says.

"For example, if customers get repeated busy signals, don't get answers when they call, or are placed on hold, they're not likely to call again. The Horizon VS's call coverage feature prevents this from happening. It allows incoming calls to be quickly transferred to another extension after a few rings, or to have calls immediately routed from one extension to another, resulting in fast service to customers," the spokesman reports.

"These and other features calling feature allows busy managers to conduct conversations with two or more people so business can be conducted quickly without the time and expense of setting up, traveling to, and attending meetings in distant locations," the spokesman explains.

"These and other features help owners and managers of small businesses save time, reduce expenses and stimulate new business," the spokesman adds.

TOO MUCH TAX

Many forestland owners pay too much income tax, says a newly revised publication now available from the Mississippi Forestry Commission.

Compiled and published by the U. S. Forest Service in cooperation with southern state foresters and southern extension foresters, the folder provides information on which timber income is taxable; on deductible expenses associated with timber sales or annual operating costs; on casualty loss deductions; the importance of record keeping; on tax free cost-share payments; and on reforestation tax incentives.

The folder is entitled "Many Forest Landowners Pay Too Much Income Tax: Do You?" and may be obtained from any County or District Office of the Forestry Commission, or by writing the State Forester 908 Robert E. Lee Building, Robert E. Lee Building, Jackson, Ms. 39201. It is also available from the U.S. Forest Service, 1720 Peachtree Road, NW, Atlanta, La. 30367.

"The time to think about your income tax is before—not after—you sell your timber," the publication says. Most forestland owners can treat net income from the sale of standing timber as long-term capital gains, and requirements for doing so are outlined in the easy-to-read publication.

"Expenses which may be deducted for a timber sale include tree-marking expense; scaling costs; cruising costs; consulting fees and temporary improvements connected with the sale (such as road construction), according to the pamphlet.

Also, certain costs can be capitalized and recovered as timber is harvested, such as purchase price of timber, site preparation and tree planting.

Operating expenses incurred each year can be deducted, such as certain tools; equipment maintenance costs; salaries, wages or professional fees; interest on mortgage payments; depreciation allowances for equipment; and certain taxes connected with the timber.

Casualty losses can be claimed, but proof must be presented of the casualty's nature, of losses, or ownership, of timber costs and expenditures, and of recoverable insurance.

Casualty is defined as "the complete or partial destruction of property resulting from an identifiable event of a sudden, unexpected or unusual nature."

Casualty causes may include ice storms, hurricanes, forest fires, sleet storms, hail and floods.

"Capital gains and tax deductions point up the value of record keeping to the timber owner. Bookkeeping needn't be complicated. All that's needed is an orderly listing of original costs and expenditures as they are made, backed up by appropriate receipts," the publication says.

Landowners who have failed to claim any benefits or deductions explained in the folder during the past three years still have time, in many cases, to file an amended tax form and seek reimbursement.

SOLAR FACTS

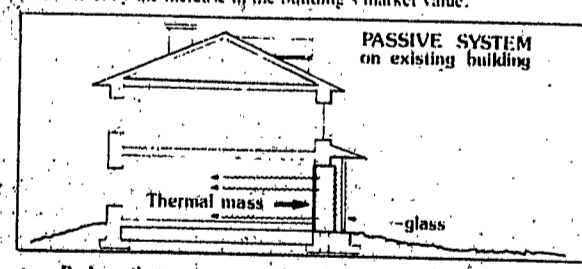

by Robert E. Lewis

PASSIVE HEATING OFFERS ADVANTAGES, DIFFERENCES

There are many advantages in using passive solar energy to heat our homes and commercial buildings. Any disadvantages are few and minor, and more aptly termed "differences" from conventional heating methods.

The most obvious advantage of a passive solar heating system is its capacity to save fuel. It is currently estimated that at least 80 percent of the average home's heating requirements can be met by a passive solar energy system. As fuel costs continue to escalate, the prospect of reducing fuel consumption by relying on the sun's energy becomes highly attractive.

In addition, passive heating systems can be inexpensive to build. When included in the original design and construction of a building, a passive system adds surprisingly little to the cost. Existing buildings are also adaptable to passive design. In fact, the cost of a retrofit passive system is often offset by the increase in the building's market value.

Perhaps the greatest attraction of a passive heating system is its simplicity. Since most passive systems are free of mechanical equipment, there are no fans, pumps, compressors, ducts or moving parts to break down. And because they use common construction materials—such as masonry, glass, brick, etc.—passive systems usually have long, maintenance-free lives.

Finally, passive solar systems offer a great degree of architectural flexibility. A common misconception is that solar homes must, by necessity, be futuristic-looking.

While solar dwellings are the homes of the future by virtue of the way they are heated (and in some cases cooled), designs by some of the leading homebuilders have as much appeal to the traditional as to the contemporary eye. In fact, passive systems are being installed around the country in Cape Cod, colonial and ranch-style homes without any loss of architectural integrity.

But passive heating systems still remain different from conventional heating methods. First, temperature control is not as easy in solar buildings as in structures with conventional heating systems. Since a passive system is an integral part of the building's structure, space temperature fluctuations can result from changes in the temperature of the system's storage mass. But there are relatively simple solutions to these situations.

For residential applications, temperature control can be achieved through operable windows, shading devices, venting and back-up heating systems. In large scale applications, the solution to control lies in choosing of its occupants.

In addition, the temperatures in a passive solar area is usually lower than that of a conventionally heated one. While this slightly lower temperature range requires some attitude adjustment on the part of solar users, many people think solar-heated buildings are actually more comfortable than conventional types.

As Americans look for ways to conserve energy, more and more are turning to passive solar heating systems. While passive heating offers many advantages, living in a passive solar home will definitely be different. Many knowledgeable people say it will be better.

For a description of some of the differences between passive and conventional heating methods, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to:

Money Talk

DEFECTIVE PRODUCTS

The "freshunk" jeans came out of the dryer one size too small. After its third trip to the garage, the car still dies at stop lights. The new toaster burns every slice of bread to a crisp.

Complaints like these are not trivial; consumers often lose time at school or work due to problems with products or services, and American households may lose as much as $2 billion a year because of their most serious complaints.

In spite of the time and money involved, however, for many of us, consumer problems are just like rain at a picnic—we complain a lot, but we don't do anything about them.

Studies have shown at least a quarter of consumers with product or service complaints do nothing about them; another quarter may complain to family and friends, stop shopping at the particular store, or resolve never to buy the item again, but take no measures to inform the provider of their dissatisfaction.

Consumers have not only a right, but a responsibility to report unsafe products or questionable business practices.

Consumers suffer when suppliers' defective or unreported, since retailers and manufacturers can correct problems if they don't know about them.

The consumer should first try to resolve a complaint at the local level with the dealer or store manager; then communicate with the warrantor or manufacturer; and finally, if the problem still exists, ask a Better Business Bureau, trade association, or other consumer protection agency for assistance.

Consumers who shop carefully will avoid many problems and simplify the handling of others. Better consumer education about the properties of different products, how to take care of them, and what to watch out for could also help.

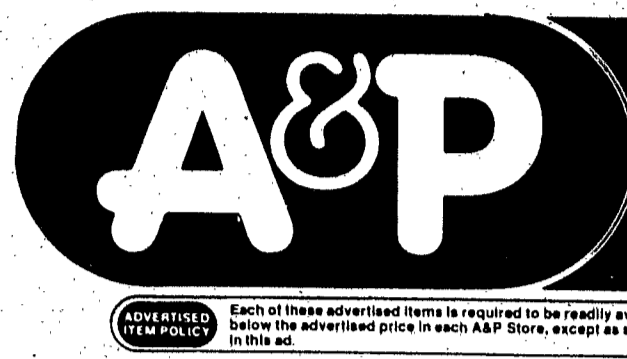

Shoppers should compare products and prices and find out return and refund policies before buying. In addition, consumers should read carefully instruction manual or tags, contracts, and warranties and file them for later reference.

Consumers should do a good job of buying first, and they will be better prepared to register valid complaints later.

Tell them about No-Frills!

No-FRILLS is the

TALK of the TOWN

If you're a No-FRILLS shopper you know by experience that our plain label products can save you up to 50 per cent. You know that these basic products give you the kind of "everyday" quality you're looking for — foods that are wholesome and nutritious, household products that get the job done. And you know that saving with No-FRILLS is consistent... every day, every time you shop.

Why not share the secret for balancing your grocery budget? Tell your friends about pure value in a plain wrapper. If they like saving money, they'll love No-FRILLS. Tell them to trust our policy of satisfaction or your money back. And tell them to look for the Valu-Time® Seal of Approval, your assurance that each item meets our strict specifications. Share the good news about No-FRILLS. After all, what are friends for?
